THE PRINCE OF WALES danced until five in the morning Tuesday, and until six in the morning yesterday. He played polo, went fox hunting as soon as he finished dancing before the sun was up, and still had time and energy to write to his father and mother by the Berengaria, sailing yesterday. That's the news about him in case you keep track of him.

The Prince of Wales does not exclude all Americans from the front pages of daily newspapers. We also honor our own national heroes. Jack Dempsey, champion American prize fighter, gets on the front page when he announces his engagement to a young moving picture actress.

MINOR NEWS includes the fact that new trans-Atlantic cables to Italy, made of a new metallic alloy, will send messages five times as fast as any cable now existing.

A FRENCH collector of antiques says he has the head of Henry IV., most popular King of France, bought for 100 francs, about $5.

Embalming, according to the Medici formula, it was necessary to cut off the King's head. Somebody got it out of the tomb at St. Denis when the revolutionists opened the royal sepulchres and kicked the bodies around.

NOBODY FORTUNATELY got the head of the good St. Denis himself, the remarkable head, that, after it had been cut off, the Saint carried in his arms all the way from St. Denis to Paris, according to the Legend, thus establishing his miraculous powers.

ONE MUSEUM in Paris has Voltaire's heart, preserved. You might buy the heads of several French kings from the French Republic for less than the price they would ask for that withered old heart. There are plenty of kings, few Voltaires.

ALWAYS MORE war. The war in China has really begun, civil war. The rival armies are fighting, American and British vessels are guarding the city of Pekin. French, English and American warships are on hand to protect Europeans.

GEORGIA AND Azerbaijan are in revolt. Many are wounded and killed in five days fighting. That's the Georgia across the ocean, of course, and its the Azerbaijan gentlemen rebelling against the Soviet. There is fighting in Baku where the oil wells are.

Who is financing the fighting? To many good patriots it seems wrong to let Bolsheviks have any oil wells. The Lord certainly didn't put oil in the ground for THEM.

WHO DO you think will be elected? "Nobody knows, nobody will win in November," is as good an answer as any.

La Follette will run remarkably in the Northwest, and may surprise everybody in other parts, including New York.

Mr. Davis, presumably, will get the Southern vote that his party guarantees him.

Millions believe that in suggest any other name than Coolidge's for winner is preposterous.

The difficulty is to see how any one of the candidates can expect to get the necessary majority of votes.

HOWEVER, AS a wise politician says, many will think as they think now until October 15th then they will ask themselves, shall we settle this election now and elect somebody, or shall we wait for Congress to settle it next March and keep the whole country torn up until then?

IF YOU have had doubt about La Follette carrying Wisconsin, read the returns yesterday of a contest for nomination on the Republican ticket.

Governor Blaine, La Follette candidate, was 62,819 ahead of Arthur Hirst, his nearest opponent.

RICH REALTOR WEDS TYPIST IN SECRET

MRS. J. A. B. SHAW

She's twenty-six years younger than her husband and has abandoned a typewriter for the home of a millionaire.

MILLIONAIRE AND TYPIST MARRIED

Newton Widow Evicted by City

REALTOR IN SURPRISE WEDDING

Millionaire J. A. B. Shaw of West Somerville Now Husband to His Stenographer

Just when all the friends of Jehdiah Anthony Bunce Shaw, millionaire Boston and West Somerville realtor, and his stenographer, Madelyn May Cailles, twenty-six years his junior, were beginning to think they were not going to be married after all—the couple up and fooled them.

Their intent to marry was admitted by the couple in July. A month went by, and six weeks, with nothing further having developed as far as their friends knew.

Then today there bobbed up in Newton City Hall and in Somerville City Hall returns that showed the couple had stolen a march on their friends, and had been married in Newton on August 6, Frederick M. Grant, Newton City Clerk and a Justice of the Peace, performed the ceremony.

HOME COST $25,000.

At present Mr. and Mrs. Shaw are believed to be on an extended honeymoon. On their return they will live in a beautiful home at No. 560 Laurel avenue, Newton-ville, built by the millionaire realtor for his bride at a cost of $25,000.

Now the new Mrs. Shaw will have opportunity to exercise the simplicity in which she was brought up at Hoin, Me., and which she declared in July she would observe in her household even as the wife of a millionaire.

SPOKE TO SERVANTS.

"I shall always be devoted to the friends of my early years," she said at that time.

"I don't believe in a house full of servants, either, and when my husband and I return from our honeymoon, I plan to keep, as well as direct, our home.

"I mean to cook and wash and make the beds myself. I can drive an automobile and I mean to do that myself. We will have no chauffeur to snub, to cowhide, and no valets to annoy me and insult my friends. Love, not cupidity, is the basis of our romance. I am the same girl to him when I went to school in Bath Me.

JACK DEMPSEY SCOFFS AT ENGAGEMENT STORY

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 4.—Jack Dempsey, at the Traymore, denied he was engaged to Miss Estelle Taylor. He blamed the stories on a feature story written by a girl reporter in Philadelphia "who twisted things around a bit." "Forget it," was his terse comment when the matter was put to him. "Let's talk about the boxing game."

FLIERS OFF FRIDAY OR SATURDAY

Globe-Girdlers Fought Head Winds and Squalls on the Long Trip to Pictou

Pictou, N. S., Sept. 4.—Held up by headwinds and rain squalls on their 420 mile flight from Hawkes Bay to this harbor, America's world encircling airmen have decided to remain here until tomorrow or Saturday.

The original plans of the fliers called for their hopping off from Pictou for Boston with the break of dawn today, but when it was found impossible to refuel the planes on account of the growing dusk, the delay was decided upon.

A broken spreader bar on Lieut. Smith's plane was another reason for the lay-over. Repairs were started at daybreak and were completed within a few hours.

OFF TOMORROW.

The flight to Boston, tomorrow will be made by way of St. John, N. B.

When Lt. Smith and Lt. Nelson leave here, they will have as companions Lt. Leigh Wade and Lt. H. H. Ogden, who were forced out of the flight last month when their plane was wrecked while being moored aboard the cruiser Richmond off Iceland.

In a new plane, Lts. Wade and Ogden will continue the flight upon its completion. A new propeller, which is to replace the one found unsuitable, will be placed on the Boston II., Lt. Wade's machine, today.

PLANES UNINJURED.

The jump from Hawkes Bay was made without incident, beyond the breaking of the spreader bar on Lt. Smith's machine. The run is not recorded that did not reflect the flying qualities of the globe girdlers.

During the trip through the air the aviators encountered fog, a treading current in Northumberland waters, and except when they met rain squalls here and there, found conditions generally good. The luck which enabled them to make the long distances in the shortest time afford vessels which did not convoy them.

MET HEAD WINDS

Head winds developed over Cape Strait, leading out of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and cut down the speed of the machines until after Cape Sable was sighted. Then the wind hauled to the northwest and virtually blew itself out.

The aviators, fatalistic of the planes that have carried them more than 22,000 miles, have been living

M'ADOO'S BROTHER JOINS LA FOLLETTE

New York, Sept. 4.—William G. McAdoo's brother, Malcolm, has become an official member of the La Follette-Wheeler forces.

His appointment as treasurer of the State Committee was announced today by the La Follette-Wheeler headquarters. He was chosen by unanimous vote of the committee.

"I am heartily glad to align myself with a genuine progressive movement in American politics and to do my part in carrying it over," Mr. McAdoo said.

"Some of the members of this movement are to be against some Democratic candidates, three of whom are Democrats and six Republicans. If I am a leader, I am a leader of no party. I would have no self-respect if I voted for either of the old parties this year."

PRETTY BLONDE ROBS BACK BAY APARTMENT

A beautiful blonde girl thieves, described by police as a fake-way worker, is being sought for thefts in Back Bay apartments and in other sections of the city. Thousands of dollars worth of jewelry and clothing have been stolen by the girl, police declare.

Her latest robbery was in the apartments of Miss Molly Hamilton, Suite 33, No. 10 Hemenway street. After prowling about the hallways for some time, the girl gained a false key into the door of the Hamilton apartment and stole rings, pins of jewelry. Miss Hamilton has missed, together with valuables, $150 in cash.

One account of the female bandit she has not been tallied with. It is said that he met a beautiful blonde girl about 23 years old, apparently dressed in an office girl's costume, while good ring, amber beads, a wrist watch and an August's bracelet, smoked cigarettes and wore lipstick. Two colored bracelets, one on each wrist, completed her outfit, police say, besides a loaded cane.

"WOLF" LAMAR CLEANS UP 2 MILLION

By J. P. MAHER.

New York, Sept. 4 (Universal).—The "Wolf" has Wall Street on the run once more.

David Lamar, known as the "Wolf of Wall Street," is reputed to have cleaned up $2,000,000 from bearish operations in the stock market in the few weeks he has been out of the penitentiary, where he served a term for impersonating a federal officer.

Most of the Lamar clientele, it is understood, was made "broke" as sucker on the stock of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company, recorder as the pet John D. Rockefeller, but which has broken in price from $30 a share to $16.

WATCHED BY EXCHANGE.

Lamar has become a sensation in the face of the opposition of the Stock Exchange and other interests that have been watching him closely. A week ago some members of the exchange are reported to have received questionnaires sent out with the purpose of ferreting what brokers were handling the "Wolf's" business.

Lamar is said to be conducting his operations from a room in No. 25

'WOLF' LAMAR CLEANS UP $2,000,000 IN RAID ON WALL STREET

FEW WEEKS OUT OF JAIL, HE SPRINGS BEAR COUP IN OIL

Broad street. Although investigators have watched, and questionnaires have been sent out to members, the Stock Exchange has thus far been unable to discover what houses are handling his business.

RUMORS OF FAILURE.

Many years ago, prior to receiving the sobriquet of "Wolf of Wall Street," members of the Exchange declare that David Lamar had several friends in No. 26 Broadway, the home of the Rockefellers. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., controls the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company.

Oil was discovered on the Colorado Fuel & Iron's extensive holdings in Colorado several months ago. Drilling contracts were made with the Mutual and other oil companies and as a result of the brilliant prospects the stock advanced to $54 a share.

A week ago rumors were circulated in the street that instead of the oil the drilling on the Colorado Fuel property had produced only water. Investigation has proved that these rumors were false. Several wells have already come in and others are expected to show a good flow of oil soon.

STOCK DROPPED.

Coincident with the false rumors, however, the stock of Colorado Fuel was hammered down until it touched 34½ and there met support. As a result the report was circulated in the trading rooms that "Lamar is to be driven out of the street."

Lamar is quoted as having declared on leaving the New Jersey penitentiary:

"I want money, so I am going where the money is."

His former associates in the street are alarmed as to how he raised sufficient funds to resume trading on a large scale.

All kinds of reports are heard of diamonds and other jewels finding their way to the pawn shops to add to the funds raised in the white light district, while others talk of secret brokers forming a pool to set the wolf back on his feet because of his reputation as a plunger and the commissions to be derived therefrom.

Although mystified as to how he raised the money, members of the exchange appear quite certain that he is back in the market and it is common report among the traders that the power-to-be are after those who take his business.

PETTING PARTY WAR BEGUN IN FITCHBURG

Fitchburg, Sept. 4.—Chief of Police Thomas J. Godley is determined to break up auto petting parties. The first person caught was Wilfred Grondin of No. 76 Congress street. Grondin with another male friend and two girls were found on Damon road in a machine in which all lights were out, so Grondin was haled into court for operating without lights.

WORLD FLIERS ARRIVING AT LABRADOR

ANTONIO LOCATELLI

Intrepid Italian flier, who was picked up 135 miles off Cape Farewell, Greenland, after his plane made a forced drop into the sea, as he appeared on his arrival in Boston aboard the U. S. S. Lawrence.

LOCATELLI IS CITY'S GUEST TODAY

Jaunty attired and looking none the worse for his arduous experiences, the Honorable Antonio Locatelli, as he prefers to be known, Italian aviator, was greeted by city and State today.

Accompanied by three Italian lieutenants and a mechanician Locatelli arrived at the Charestown Navy Yard on the U. S. S. Lawrence, flagship of the world-fliers' escort force.

They were transferred to the Lawrence after having been picked up 125 miles off Cape Farewell, Greenland by the U. S. S. Richmond, after the Italian plane had been forced into the sea.

On his arrival at the Navy Yard, Locatelli, who was clad in a golf suit, took pains to declare he was not a lieutenant but "The Honorable Antonio."

He said he knew his party would be picked up and was singing when the Richmond arrived. He was accompanied by Lieutenants Castelli, Parvinelli and Sonatelli and Mechanician Brucciani.

They were met at the Yard by a committee consisting of representatives of the Italian consul's office and Italian societies of Boston.

The visitors were taken to the Copley Plaza for the night, and today were greeted by Governor Cox and Mayor Curley. It was also planned to take them on a tour of the historic spots around Boston.

Meantime the Italian ambassador at Washington was notified of the arrival, and word was expected from him today.

Locatelli praised the United States Navy highly, and particularly by the officers and crew of the Lawrence for their treatment of himself and his party.

which were found outside the window of the Winslow station through which he had forced an entrance. The jimmies fitted perfectly in the marks made on the window sill of the Norwood station.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

It is believed the dying man listed the Norwood station and failing to find anything of value decided to search the Winslow station. There was no money in either of the station buildings.

Patrolman Coyne impressed a passing automobile into service and rushed the injured burglar to the hospital after the shooting. The Norwood authorities were unable to find any mark of identification about the burglar's clothing.

About a year ago Meehan was waylaid by a band of hijackers in a lonely section of the People's Ice House property in Marlboro, where he was bound and gagged and then robbed of $2,500 in cash and a large amount of liquor.

John B. Girouard, owner of the ice house property, was murdered by the hijackers when he refused to obey their orders to get inside one of his ice houses. Two men were later arrested in connection with the murder, but the actual slayer was never apprehended.

LETTER TO HUB MAN ON DROWNING VICTIM

Portland, Me., Sept. 4.—In the pocket of a mulatto, who was drowned near Vaughan's Bridge, was found a letter bearing the inscription S. S. Prince Arthur, Central Wharf, Boston, addressed to Charles Ernest Munro. It is thought that the man fell off the bridge, as his face was cut. He was five feet ten inches tall, weighed 170 pounds, and wore a brown suit, green and white striped shirt, and tan shoes.

start at Santa Monica, Cal., last March, scrubbed them clean of oil and grease, carefully went over the engines and made things all fast before they would allow themselves to be taken ashore.

RECEPTION IN PICTOU.

From the planes they went direct to the Canadian torpedo boat destroyer Patriot, where they were met by Capt. H. E. Reid, commander of the vessel; Hance J. Logan, representing the Canadian government; Maj-Gen. H. C. Thacker, senior military officer of the district; Mayor J. A. McEachern of Pictou, and other notables.

After a reception on the Barry, the triumphant airmen paraded through the streets of the town headed by the pipers band of Pictou Highlanders clad in the kilts of old Scotland.

The procession returned to the town square, where addresses of welcome were delivered by the Mayor and representatives of the Dominion and Provincial governments and the air and land forces of the Dominion.

Maj. Wellsford MacDonald, son of the minister of defence and a member of the Provincial Legislature for Pictou, paid special tribute to Lts. Wade and Ogden, who, he said, had the misfortune to lose their plane through no fault of their own on the flight from the Orkneys to Iceland.

New York American Gets Fliers for City

Washington, Sept. 4 (Universal).—As a result of a special effort made by the New York American, the around-the-world fliers will fly over the heart of New York City when they reach here on their epoch-making journey.

An appeal from the New York American that the people of the metropolis be given an opportunity to see the famous airmen in action was submitted to the office of the army air service here and relayed to the Chief, Major General Mason Patrick, at New York, supervising arrangements for their arrival at Mitchell Field. Before flying to Boston to meet the fliers General Patrick advised his office that he would make the necessary plans and issue orders for the fliers to circle over the heart of the city, so that as many people as possible might see the planes.

$4,000 BOSTON MOTORMAN SO BUSY HE SELDOM SEES HIS FAMILY

BUT M'CARTHY WILL SOON OWN HIS HOME

You can make a lot of money on the Boston Elevated—but—You'll earn it!

Tim McCarthy

You can be a motorman, for instance, at 70 cents an hour, and make $4,033.30 a year.

These are the total wages for the past year of Timothy McCarthy, a motorman on the Cambridge division, the highest paid blue uniform man on the whole Boston Elevated system.

Here are some of the ways McCarthy earned his $4,000:

Going to work at 4:15 o'clock in the morning and quitting for the day at midnight.

Eating lunch-cart luncheon at all hours of the day and night.

Piling out in the wee, small hours of a February morning to pilot a snow plow through trackless miles of snow with the temperature flirting with the below-zero mark.

Breaking engagements with his wife and family to answer a call to overtime work.

Doing eight to sixteen hours a day in the cold of Winter and the heat of Summer.

Going without a day off for months at a time.

At the State House at the wage arbitration wage hearing, at which the Boston Elevated sought to prove that its employes could make far more money than the average wage of $5.58 a day which the employes now declare to be insufficient, Auditor Foran of the Elevated quoted McCarthy's wages to prove the adequacy of the present wages paid Elevated employes.

There's another side to the story, however, and Mrs. Timothy McCarthy of No. 40 Harvey street, Cambridge, declared today that she was the first.

"Yes, my husband has been making pretty good wages," says Mrs McCarthy, "but let me tell you, he earns them.

"We have two children and we expect to own this house we live in, but I can assure you, we're not rolling in money.

"My husband works long hours for his wages. He gets seventy cents an hour during his regular hours and a dollar and five cents an hour when he works overtime. The greatest amount of his overtime work is during the bad seasons of the year, especially during the Winter months, when there is a lot of snow on the ground.

"He is called out at all hours when there are snowstorms to drive the snowplow and he has to go no matter how tired he is.

"He hasn't had a day off for ages, at rough we expect him to get one sometime soon. He had only twelve days off during the whole of the past year.

"We live near the car barns and that saves time getting to work and enables him to come home to lunch at noon time on his present schedule.

"His hours vary a great deal, but here is a usual one: Goes to work at 4:15 in the morning. Gets through work at 4 o'clock. When he is working over time, he won't show up until midnight or afterwards.

"Frequently I don't know how late he gets home because I am asleep when he comes in, but I can assure you, we're not rolling in money."

FOE REPULSED BY DEFENDERS OF SHANGHAI

Coveted City Is Filled With Foreign Refugees From the Firing Line

Shanghai, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—After twenty-four hours of fighting, with in fifteen miles of the coveted city of Shanghai, forces of General Lu Yung-Hsiang, ruler of the territory, repulsed the army of General Chi Shieh-Yuan and gained about two miles, according to a statement issued by Ho Keng-Lin, defense commissioner of Shanghai. Many casualties were reported.

Shanghai, crowded with foreigners, who huddled into the city from the firing lines, viewed the opening of hostilities with apprehension over fear that the battle lines might come closer to the city before nightfall.

FIGHTING SPREADS.

The engagement is becoming general from the line of the Shanghai-Nanking Railway to the coast, and heavy cannonading along the railway lines was reported.

Several contingents of British marines were landed in the foreign section and 400 French sailors were sent ashore. The French troops supplement a volunteer company on duty to defend the French settlement.

Chang Tso-Lin, military governor of Manchuria, has issued an ultimatum to the Peking government demanding that unless it "heaps its wrath on General Lu Yung-Hsiang, Chang himself will mediate by force, save a Japanese news agency telegram from Peking.

Peking, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The Peking newspapers allege that General Chang Tso-Lin has contributed $1,500,000 to General Lu Hung-Kaiang and has promised him military assistance when opportune.

RAILWAY MENACED.

Residents of Peking, spending the summer at points reached by the Peking-Mukden Railway, along which would bring its troops southward, have been advised by Chinese friends to leave those places in view of the probable interruption of the line.

The request, which it is alleged was received from General Chi Shieh-Yuan, of Kiangsu, for units of the army of General Feng Yu-Hsiang, constituting the defense of Peking, is said to have been referred to the Peking government on the ground that the security of the capital must be safeguarded if the troops were removed.

Queen Mary Makes the Knitted Suit More Popular

London, Sept. 4.—The knitted suit, already popular with women, will become more in demand than ever now that Queen Mary has decided to take several with her to Balmoral this Fall.

These five Queen has chosen are knitted and woven in silk and wool, edged with silk binding. One is a Donard suit of softest blue on simple lines; another is of nightingale green with a full jacket. The skirts are straight and perfectly plain, one seat narrows a little at the waist and another has a belt.

Silk jumpers, in the same colors as the knitting, will be worn with the costumes.

THIEVES TAKE ENTIRE STOCK OF STORE

They Get Away With Everything in Huntington Avenue Shop

Thieves who were nothing if not thorough entered Edward M. Levy's furnishing store at No. 258 Huntington avenue and carried off nearly the entire stock. Mr. Levy puts his loss at $3,000.

The break was made early Wednesday morning. Today the thieves returned to the building, tried unsuccessfully to jimmy the door of Levy's store, and were frightened off when they tried to break into the Open Floor Company stock room. John F. Powers, head of the concern, was sleeping in the store.

The building is still in process of construction.

Quiting into an unoccupied room on the street floor, the thieves forced a partition and climbed through a partially completed transom, to Levy's establishment.

It is believed they took their loot away in an automobile, which they parked in front of the building while they worked.

Besides the usual stock carried by furnishing goods stores today, Powers, the head of the company, telephoned to the police that the thieves escaped with all the Fall and Winter stock of silk shirts, collars, neckties and handkerchiefs.

The report of the Wednesday morning theft was made by the police after they gave the story to reporters today.

SUICIDE THREAT BY GIRLS HELD AS SLAYERS

Chicago, Sept. 4.—"We've been locked up most of our lives and if we have to pass twenty years in the penitentiary we'll find some way of killing ourselves."

Such is the statement of Lucille Marshall, and Anna Valanis, arrested in connection with the murder, April 17, of Mrs. Bessie Gonsalgen, No. 217 South Irving avenue.

The girls were made by a reporter following the questioning of Lucilla by First Assistant State's Attorney German today.

The girls connected with the case are hard-boiled, and apparently proud of it. There is no evidence of remorse. But there is a wistful hopelessness on the part of Lucilla and Anna because of the dreary future which faces them.

They do not see how they should be held responsible for the death of Mrs. Gaenssien, whom they declare they did not intend to kill. They even go so far as to insist that they did not kill her. "She probably choked herself to death trying to get loose," one asserts.

"Gee, you can't smoke in jail. Isn't that funny?" complains Lucille. But Anna comforts her with "Well, it's lots better than in Geneva. They've got a piano here and you can dance."

FITCHBURG MAN DEAD IN N. Y. AUTO CRASH

Whitehall, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Harry Baum of Fitchburg was killed, Marvin C. Dwyer of Lancaster was probably fatally injured, and others of their party hurt, when their automobile plunged through a fence and across a field, near here.

The car hit a wagon on the highway, and catapulted off the road.

James Dwyer of Rutland, Vt., and James Keith of Walpole were the others injured in the party, which was bound for Fairhaven, Vt.

FLAPPERS CONDEMNED BY EDWARD M. FIELD

Rockaway Beach, L. I., Sept. 4.—Edward Morse Field, 66, the only living son of Cyrus Field, who laid the first trans-Atlantic cable, assailed the younger generation after ceremonies laying a new cable to Italy. He said: "I don't put much stock in the modern girl. She frets too much and is too independent. Boys have poor morals, almost no religion, and don't try to learn anything. Consequently their literature is of sexy and unsensical."

Bay State Yachtswomen Racing Boats Off Hull This Week

By BETTY ALDEN

HISTORY is being made this week in the world of feminine sailing enthusiasts.

The Massachusetts women's sailing championship is being staged off the Hull station—the first event of its kind ever held in the world.

Among the yacht clubs represented in the matches are the Beverly, Duxbury, Cohasset, Hingham, Boston, Squantum, Eastern and Pleon. Pairs of women and girls represent their clubs.

Prominent among these skilled skippers are Gertrude and Adelaide Hooper, daughters of the James R. Hoopers of Beacon street, who for years have passed their Summers at Hull. The entire family is devoted to yachting, and they spend much of their time on board their sloop yacht the "Hobomok."

Another clever young yachtswoman is Miss Ruth Sears, daughter of George G. Sears of Beacon street and Cohasset, who heads the Cohasset crew.

The Beverly Yacht Club numbers two very capable entrants in Miss Alice Sherburne and Miss Rachel Jackson, who may be paged either on the Abaco or the Senta.

Miss Priscilla Rothwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Rothwell of Bay State road and Marblehead Neck, heads the band of feminine skippers from the Pleon Yacht Club.

The matches are being sailed in the Hingham one-design, square-sided catboats, known as the "Mighty Mites." Six of these craft have been generously furnished by members of the Hingham Yacht Club.

EACH match is the best two out of three races, the crews changing boats after each race, as is done in the junior title event.

The course is over the eastern part of Hingham Bay between the Hull station, Strawberry Hill and Bumkin Island, where there is comparatively little tide.

The matches are being held under the auspices of the Boston Yacht Club for the Hodder Cup, which has been given by James R. Hodder, rear-commodore of the Boston Yacht Club. Mr. Hodder and Quincy Tucker are largely responsible for the staging of these matches.

The Hull committee of the Boston Yacht Club, headed by Mr. Tucker, gave a dance at the clubhouse last night, when the fleet of Pleon Yacht Club of Marblehead was anchored off the float.

APROPOS of sailing, many of the yachts closed their season on Labor Day, but several others are continuing their racing events somewhat longer.

The last open regatta of the Eastern Yacht Club at Marblehead Neck takes place next Saturday, but at the Corinthian Yacht Club, also at Marblehead Neck, sporting events will continue two weeks longer, with open events scheduled for September 3 and 4, and the famous Chowder race on the 21st.

Myatt, R. I., Sept. 4.—Edith Cummings, defending champion, was eliminated in the woman's national golf championship by Miss Myriam Burns, of Kansas City in a heartbreaking match which saw the issue carried to the last hole.

WORCESTER TO SEEK BAN ON ONE-MAN CARS

Double Killing Leads to Action by Members of City Council

Worcester, Sept. 4.—Activity directed toward abolition of one-man cars in Worcester, either through a city government resolution registering official disapproval of their use or support of legislation prohibiting their use, followed the accident on Grafton street in which a mother and her child were killed by a one-man car.

Councilman Owen C. Dyer took the initiative, filing with City Clerk Towne a resolution for consideration by the City Council, which, if adopted, would place the city officially on record as opposed to the operation of one-man cars.

Councilman George F. Lynch said he would consult with Mayor O'Hara to see what could be done with particular reference to legislation abolishing them.

Officials of the Worcester Consolidated Street Railway Co. were reported as saying that the company did not regard the use of one-man cars as a hazard, and pointed out that the double killing could not be attributed to the use of any particular type of car.

Councilman Dyer declared he would petition the State Department of Public Utilities to order the discontinuance of the operation of one-man trolley cars in Worcester, and would ask that a public hearing be granted.

PRISON REFORM HOPE OF "MA" FERGUSON

Reduction of Tax Burden and Better Schools Also Her Ambitions

By MRS. MIRIAM A. FERGUSON
DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE FOR GOVERNOR OF TEXAS

Copyright, 1924, by King Features Syndicate

(Distributed by Universal Service)

This is one of a series of articles written by "Ma" Ferguson, Democratic nominee for Governor of Texas. Other articles will follow.

Temple, Tex., Sept. 4.—Prison reform, equalization of taxes, redemption of our rural public schools are my ambitions as Governor of Texas. The Board of Pardons must be restored, if for no other reason than respect for the principles of Christianity.

Law enforcement is the first duty of every representative of the people, who have made the law; and the Volstead Act is a law. There is no question of prohibition; there is only the question of carrying out through law enforcement this mandate of the people.

PRISON PROBLEM.

One of the gravest questions confronting modern government is the problem of the penitentiary. The iron-barred houses of the nation hold not only punishment for wrong doing; they hold economic waste in lost time and money.

I would make the prisoners of Texas self-supporting, by allowing them, through work and training, either to sustain themselves or to be able to go back into the world as paying economic units, rather than as losses and dependents.

The Board of Pardons is no more than a council of mercy, and it guarantees at least more humane treatment of prisoners. If I am Governor this board will be restored.

Restoring hope to convicts, we will have heard and answered their pleas for mercy. They are due that much.

EQUALIZED TAXATION.

The question of equalized taxation is a problem that may be answered either in terms of satisfied, prosperous citizens, or in terms of discontent and oppression. Taxation is good sense put to good use or it is slavery.

I will veto any laws or bills that seek to raise taxes on any business or any class, to any great amount.

Tax exempt bonds are consuming the substance of the people and I am opposed to the issuance of any more tax-free city, county, State, school, district or road bonds. The common people must pay the large share of taxes when the more prosperous can buy bonds to escape taxation. This kind of taxation is not equalized, not fair.

RURAL SCHOOL REFORM.

Rural school reform is absolutely essential, and by cutting down a few inflated appropriations and applying the money to the rural school budget, I shall try to give the country people their just share of public school opportunity. By changing the highway law I propose to save $3,000,000 for use in the rural schools, three-tenths of the auto tax going according to this plan, into the rural school budget.

It is not necessary or sufficient for me to say that high taxes and useless offices should be abolished, thereby giving the people the justice and relief to which they are entitled, and the people of this country an example they can copy if they will. It is better for me to say that as Governor of Texas, I will do these things to satisfy my ambitions for the Lone Star State.

The Governor's veto is more specific than speeches or promises. I shall use my power of veto in the furtherance of these reform ambitions of mine.

WILL KEEP FAITH.

If I can help the convicts of our prisons to become self supporting; sure of a hearing, hopeful of mercy when mercy is due; if I can reduce the tax burden of the farmer and butcher and the baker—the burden of the people—to a bearable and sane minimum; if I can scatter the benefits of education along our highways, reaching every child alike; if I can demand and obtain law enforcement—if I can do these things, I will have satisfied my ambitions for the state of my birth. I will have kept faith with the people.

I may have hitched my wagon to a planet, but I believe I have hitched to horse sense, along with all the hope-wagons of people ambitious for a prosperous future.

They may be big ambitions, but Texas is a big state. The people have asked and I have promised.

AUTO TRUCK CAPSIZES: MAN AND BOY HURT

An unidentified man was mildly injured and a boy, giving his name as Leo Kennis on, twelve years old, dazed so that he had forgotten his address, was shaken up and bruised today in the capsizing of a light auto truck at Broadway and Austin street, Somerville.

The truck on which the man and boy were riding was crossing Broadway to enter Austin street when it was struck and overturned by a touring car owned and operated by Jeremiah Driscoll of Second street Medford.

HUSBAND SLAYS BEAUTY FROM HIS CELL

Turk Officer Jailed as Deserter Stabs Mate for Exerting New Freedom

Berlin, Sept. 4.—A sensation has been created in Turkey by a married tragedy in which Neched Effendi, a lieutenant in the Turkish army, stabbed to death through prison bars his young wife, who was known as "the most beautiful woman in Constantinople."

The case is discussed extensively and will likely come before the Turkish National Assembly because it is being used as an argument against the movement for a new freedom for Turkish women which found its climax in the proposal now before the Assembly to abolish the harem and to make monogamy, instead of polygamy, the legal marriage state.

Effendi was an enthusiastic adherent of the new freedom for women—so much so that he discharged his two other wives and kept only his favorite.

The resulting wife was very happy at first, but soon the new freedom went to her head and she announced that she had the same rights as a man. And the custom of married men in Europe have a far wider interpretation as a rule than in America.

A few weeks ago he was transferred to Angora. He received letters that his wife was practicing her woman's rights during his absence.

MANY TO GO ON HOLY NAME PILGRIMAGE

Reservations are coming in so fast that the archdiocese of Boston will probably have the largest delegation in the Holy Name pilgrimage to Washington, D. C., Sept. 18 to 21, according to announcement made yesterday by Joseph M. Shea, director, of No. 323 Washington street.

Large delegations are also expected to attend the sessions from Portland, Me., Burlington, Vt., Manchester, N. H., and from cities and towns in western Massachusetts. Announcement was also made that the Mission Church Band of this city will lead the parade at Washington on Sunday, Sept. 21.

BOY'S ACTIONS PROVE HE'S NOT RUSSELL SMITH

Teased Little Girl and Was Greedy, Unlike the Lost Child, Says Mother

Mother instinct finally told Mrs. Clarence Smith of North Dighton that the boy she brought back from Chicago two months ago was not her missing son, Russell, she assured State authorities today.

But there were other circumstances which left her absolutely convinced.

Eliminating these circumstances, she said that the boy she first claimed, and has now disowned, had an antipathy for the family woodpile and always insisted on the largest piece of cake.

He also liked to tease Mrs. Smith's little daughter, Helen, while the real Russell Everett Smith was always kind to his little sister.

Even four years of wandering could not have changed him so, she is convinced.

GOING BACK TO CHICAGO.

In the meantime, the nine-year-old boy, who for three months has been known as Russell Smith and enjoyed a pleasant home near the Providence Turnpike, has lost his identity and is merely one more inmate of the home of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children at No. 43 Mt. Vernon street.

The boy without a name will be taken back to Chicago, probably to the care of the motherly woman who had him in custody when Mrs. Smith announced she was satisfied he was her son.

Since he has been at the Smith home at North Dighton, the castoff foundling has acted in a manner displeasing to this supposed parents.

Once he told a neighbor's child that Mrs. Smith was not his mother.

"My ma had black hair and wore glasses for sore eyes," he said.

The boy himself has some eye affliction and does not bear any striking resemblance to the Smiths.

SECOND ONE DISOWNED.

His is the second boy to be taken up by Mrs. Smith as her missing son and then cast off again.

Once she went to Maine and claimed a boy taken from a band of gypsies. Later a roving vagabond said the child was Robert Ready. Mrs. Smith at first stood to her guns, and even submitted to a blood test to prove maternity. But ultimately the boy was sent away.

The boy now in the Mt. Vernon street home talks with a guttural accent and has a smattering of French.

He was picked up in Chicago a year ago, dazed, underfed, unkempt. He did not know his name and talked incoherently.

The real Russell Smith wandered out of his parent's home five years ago. He was four years old.

CONVINCED AT LAST BOY IS NOT HER SON

MRS. SMITH AND HER CHILDREN

Above is Mrs. Smith and the boy she has thought for the past three months was her missing son, Russell. Now she is convinced he is not hers. Lower view shows the boy and Mrs. Smith's daughter, Helen.

NEW FIGHT FOR LEOPOLD AND LOEB PLANNED

Two Surprise Moves Outlined to Save Them if Sentenced to Hang

Chicago, Sept. 4.—In the event of a hanging decision by Judge John R. Caverly in the murder and kidnaping case of Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, defence attorneys are understood to have under consideration two surprise moves by which they hope to carry on the battle to save the lives of the two boys.

The first would be the filing of a petition in a court of equal jurisdiction, setting forth that the boys have become insane since the trial. This petition would ask that a jury be called to determine their mental condition.

The other move, it is understood, would involve two steps, one before and the other after sentence is pronounced.

The first step would be the presentation of a motion asking Judge Caverly to withdraw the plea of guilty now entered and change to a plea of not guilty. The second step would be a trial by jury.

GIRL, 14, HUNTS N. H. MAN; SAYS HE "JILTED" HER

Manchester, N. H., Sept. 4.—Unable to find the man who had promised to marry her, a fourteen-year-old girl of Townsend Centre, Mass., who arrived here with 36 cents in her possession, has been returned to her parents by the local police.

The girl left her home with $2 and after paying her railroad fare and buying an ice-cream soda she had just 36 cents left.

She said that the Manchester man met her while working in Townsend. He lost his job and returned to Manchester. The girl came here to find him and make him fulfil his promise.

After an unsuccessful search in the vicinity of Rock Rimmon, the girl consulted Patrolman Benoit, who took her to the police station.

The police telephoned to Townsend officials, who got in touch with the girl's parents. They came to Manchester and took her home.

Hiker Wears Out 62 Pair Shoes on Trip

Tilton, N. H., Sept. 4.—Frank Keeney, "The Texas Rambling Kid," who says he left Waco, Texas, on June 4, 1923, with one penny to hike through 48 States before June 4, 1925, was in Tilton today, while passing through New Hampshire on his way from Lewiston to Maine.

He has worn out 62 pairs of shoes on his journey. He walks from 25 miles a day. He sells pictures to pay the expenses of his trip.

COAST STREWN WITH STORM WRECKAGE

Cutters Ossipee and Acushnet Pick Up Dories and Fishing Gear

Gloucester, Sept. 4.—Only dories, wreckage, and fishing gear scattered for miles off this coast remain records of the storm which nine days ago brought damage and destruction to shipping, and cost the lives of four members of fishing crews on Gloucester schooners.

A yellow dory without a name, picked up by the steam trawler Ocean, dories, trawl tubs, and fishing gear, sighted by the Coast Guard Cutter Acushnet, a ship's door, a vessel's rail, and a trawl buoy, picked up by the Cutter Ossipee—these are mute traces of possible further storm damage, according to a report to the Mayor of Gloucester.

The Ossipee arrived in port after cruising 700 miles to find possibly disabled vessels off Georges Banks. Her captain reported only floating wreckage, and radio messages of their discoveries from the Ocean and the Acushnet, also on the lookout for craft caught in the gale.

The door picked up by the Ossipee was too large to be from a schermah, it was stated. The trawl buoy bore the letters A. & W.

Two schooners engaged in swordfishing were said to be unaccounted for, the Helen Murley of New Bedford, and the Stinson of New York.

PATRIOT DAMES BACK DEFENCE DAY

At the opening meeting of the Patriot Dames, at their rooms in the Colonial Building, a stand was taken by all the members present to support the observance of Defence Day, September 12, and endorse the tactics of the War Department in promoting this event.

Stress was laid upon the necessity of protecting this country during peace times by historical references to past history by Mrs. H. Abrams.

MOTORCYCLIST HURT IN CRASH WITH AUTO

Joseph E. Frechette of No. 58 Prospect street, West Roxbury, is in a serious condition at the City Hospital as a result of being thrown headlong from his motorcycle in collision with an automobile on the Arborway, near Frances Parkman road, Jamaica Plain.

PAYS $7,000 FINE AFTER YEAR IN JAIL

New Haven, Sept. 4.—Just after being released from the county jail here, after he had completed a year's sentence, George Meglin of Ansonia paid a fine of $7,000, which is said to be the largest one paid in this State for violating the liquor laws.

BOSTON WOMAN WORKING FOR LA FOLLETTE

In the revolt of La Follette and Wheeler against the two corrupt old parties a dream of a lifetime has been realized by Mrs. Elizabeth Glendower Evans, society champion for many years in Massachusetts of the working classes.

This well-to-do gentlewoman, who combs her silvery hair back from a high brow, has been named New England member of the La Follette-Wheeler campaign committee.

Mrs. Evans

"I have known La Follette and his family for fifteen years," Mrs. Evans, who is a descendant of Puritan stock, declared, when asked how she came to be identified with the independent progressive third party movement. "I have known La Follette in good fortune and in bad fortune, chiefly in the latter. His children call me Auntie. I believe in the man to his very marrow."

AIDED STRIKERS.

Mrs. Evans said she always knew that the revolt would come but she hadn't expected in her day.

"Mr. La Follette has fought the vested interests for forty years," she continued, "and when he decided to head the third party it seemed miraculous that another man of the same type should be ready at hand to make the run with him. I refer to Mr. Wheeler."

During the Lawrence strike, Mrs. Evans, a stockholder in the mills, won the love and gratitude of the workers by courageously appearing in their behalf. By accident she witnessed three policemen assault a workman and the next day she appeared in court, testified and went bail for him.

WITH 'I. CARMEN

She gave $3,000 to meet a deficit in the defense fund of Sacco and Vanzetti on trial for their lives in Dedham and she was one of a group who picketed the White House in the demonstration for clemency for "war opinion" prisoners.

She organized with the striking "I." workmen in 1912 and counseled them against committing acts of violence. Later Governor Foss appointed her as the woman representative on a Massachusetts minimum wage commission.

"In my experience with the workers," Mrs. Evans said, "I found out that they wanted not charity but justice."

KING AND QUEEN OF BABY SHOW CROWNED

Last Day of New England Fair Also Featured by Auto Races

Worcester, Sept. 4.—Coronation of the king and queen of the baby show and award of prizes, auto races and a vaudeville program are the features for the closing day of the New England Fair today.

Industrial day was observed with 810 athletes competing in a field and track meet, representing the various industries in the city. Both girls and boys were entered, the girls showing fine work in the sprints and jumps.

There was also a big baby show followed by a kiddie carnival and parade. The baby carriages were decorated in all colors as the mothers pushed them along in front of the grand stand. Leonore Morlarty and Paul Navarro were selected as queen and king by the judges.

MISS VIEU WINNER.

Miss Emilie View of Montreal carried first and second place with her two entries in the tandem class of the horse show. Colonel E. D. Emerson of Boston was third and Orchard View Farm of Bolton fourth.

In the class for thoroughbreds, breeding required, the entries of Peter T. Roche of Leominster and all the prizes in his three horses were the only entrants in this event.

Maple Hill Farm of West Newton with its two horses, Tema Dunmark and Cuddles, won the blue ribbon in the tandem and saddle class. Crompton Smith of Grafton with his Pinto and Patches, was second. Lady Lotus and Glory, owned by the Worcester Riding School, were third, while Silver King and Silver Thread, owned by Robert Beacham of Worcester, took fourth.

HARTFORD HORSES FIRST.

In the class for pairs ridden by a lady or gentleman, Mrs. Richard J. Goodman of Hartford, with her entries, Golden Dawn and Why Not, received first honors. George Heywood of Gardner with Golden Way and Meddle, took second.

Buster, owned by Henry M. Clark of Springfield, won the first prize in the heavyweight polo pony class. Happy, owned by Worcester Riding School, was second. Jigger, owned by J. C. Stevens of Worcester, took third, and Albert, owned by Clarence Hutchinson of Worcester, was fourth.

Miss Emilie View is leading in blue ribbons, having amassed eleven.

Colonel E. D. Emerson, driving his own entry in the four in hands, event, won over the Orchard View Farm entry. Colonel Emerson was presented the Mayor's cup by Mayor O'Hara.

THOUSANDS VIEW DOGS.

Collies, Chows, French Bulls, Boston terriers and German police dogs attracted thousands to the dog show. Among the large and excellent entry of German police dogs, Laddie Von Wolfbusch, a great-nephew of Strongheart, the movie star, exited favorable comment and won a second prize. Laddie, who is nine months old, is the property of Mrs. Paul Whitman of Wilmington, Vt.

Brattleboro, Vt., Sept. 4.—Paul Golden, fourteen years old, of Hinsdale, N. H., died in the Melrose Hospital here as the result of injuries received by striking on a rowboat while diving into the Connecticut River near Hinsdale.

PRINCESS HATES COOKING; PINES FOR ONE MAN

Now in Maine; Belongs in Spain; Wedding License Waits in Vain

Not even for those in whose veins royal blood flows does the course of true love run smooth.

Take for example the turbulent romance of Princess Mercedes Jose Megan Alba de Bourbon Paleomezeno y Romanones, now of Wellesley, but originally of Spain.

The Princess, be it known, happens to be engaged in Wellesley in the most unprincely vocations. She is a cook.

Perhaps it was her distaste for the prospect of continuing in her present career as a servant that caused the Princess to turn her eyes in the direction of matrimony.

WHERE'S THE MAN?

At any rate, some three months ago she created a stir among her Wellesley acquaintances by filing intentions to marry an English actor. On June 9 last the marriage license was issued to her by the Wellesley town clerk.

To this date the marriage license has not been used. But Princess Bourbon is waiting and hoping.

In the intentions the Princess described herself as Miss Mercedes Nelson, daughter of Lord Nelson of London and New York City.

To most friends the Princess declared that Nelson at the time she received the marriage license had embarked for America and was even then on the high seas.

LETTERS FULL OF LOVE.

But as the days passed and Nelson did not appear it became more difficult for the Princess to convince her friends that such a personage as Howard Nelson really existed.

But what doubts did arise in the minds of her friends were dispelled when she presented as evidence numerous letters, postmarked London, in which Nelson vowed eternal love.

The fact that the letters had become less frequent, until they had finally stopped, however, caused the Princess herself not a little anxiety.

In spite of these disquieting features of the romances, the Princess' faith in her fiance continues unshaken. She is confident that he will some day put in his appearance.

"BE MINE," HE BEGS.

According to the Princess, she met Nelson in New York about a year ago when he was playing at a theatre there. Then he left for England to fill an engagement and they continued to correspond, until Nelson finally "popped the question" in a letter.

But, come what may, the Princess is not pining away. In fact, at present she is enjoying a vacation in Northern Maine with her employers, Mr. and Mrs. John Purdy of Bradford road, Wellesley Hills.

SHE'S MORE THAN A COOK.

Wellesley families for whom the Princess has worked are unanimous in declaring that she is some cook. And she is proficient not alone in the culinary arts. She is a brilliant linguist, having travelled in nearly all sections of the globe.

Back home in Seville, where her father, Prince Raimon de Alvarez Jose Palsozmizeno, is quite a power, a beautiful estate waits for her to but assume the role of its mistress.

GERMANY MUST JOIN LEAGUE--M'DONALD

Premier Tells General Conference Germans Can Not "Remain Outside"

Geneva, Sept. 4 (A.P.)—In an address before the League of Nations today, British Prime Minister MacDonald declared Germany cannot remain outside of the league.

The best way of handling the problem of aggression, he said, was to set up a Court, or Courts of Arbitration.

Before he began his speech, which was delivered before a crowded hall, he conferred with the representatives of the British Dominions, outlining to them the main points he would follow.

Premier MacDonald began his address amid tremendous applause, all the delegates standing in their places.

He declared that the British Empire would do everything in its power to widen the influence and prestige of the League of Nations.

Insisting that Great Britain was intensely interested in the problem of security, Mr. MacDonald added: "But we do not believe that military alliances can bring security.

"Such alliances, like mustard seeds which finally produce a tree, would bring the world back to the situation which existed before 1914. Parts based on military alliances would break up the league and certainly cause great accessions," he declared.

Through the league he said it was hoped to lay surely and finally the foundations of peace. The future happiness of the world must be based on agreements reached through the league. Warning against attempting to base peace upon force, he said:

"If we cannot devise a system of arbitration Don do not let us fool ourselves that we are going to have peace."

The Premier referred also to Russia's attitude toward the league.

FIVE BUCKETS OF DIRT A DAY ARE WASHED OUT OF THE AIR

HOW AIR IS LAUNDERED FOR EMPLOYES OF BIG BANK

After a day's supply of air has gone through this cleaner, a few buckets of dirt, dust, lint and so forth, are scooped up. John J. Heeney (shown in inset) is operating the plant, which handles 500,000 cubic feet a day.

Employes and Officials of Bank Get the "Best in Boston" in the Air Line.

Every day the air used in the offices of the new First National Bank building on Milk street is washed to make it absolutely pure.

And every night bank attendants gather up and carry off five buckets of dust, mud and other foreign substances taken from the ozone in the cleaning process.

Keeping the air pure by "turning the hose" on it is a comparatively new thing.

500,000 CUBIC FEET WASHED.

Five hundred thousand cubic feet of air are used in the bank's offices and committee rooms.

Suction pumps draw the air in off the Devonshire street side at the second and third floor levels. It is drawn down to the sub-basement, where three "washing machines" are installed. Blown through corrugated, horizontal ventilators, it is transferred to perpendicular pipes with holes in them.

DIRT FILES UP.

Through these holes the water flows all the time, and a suction is created. Air and water are blown across the room against a corrugated wall and in the impact the air continues through to an air shaft and the dirt and water fall away.

The air is sucked through iron pipes into ventilators and forced upward to the offices. The air in the offices, as a result, is almost 100 per cent. pure; and all sorts of impurities are found deposited on the wash room floors.

WHAT OTHERS GET.

The process is a liberal education in the degree of purity of the air in general use in a great industrial city.

Myers, Strong and Jones, New York engineers, designed the system. It was installed by Stone & Webster. John J. Heeney, who superintended the installation, will remain at the bank for a few months to direct its operation. The equipment was furnished by the B. F. Sturtevant Company and the sheet metal work was done by F. W. Montgomery, Inc.

DRY AGENT CLEARED OF SHOOTING SEN. GREENE

Washington, Sept. 4.—It is impossible definitely to ascertain who fired the shot which hit Senator Frank L. Greene, of Vermont, during a fight between bootleggers and prohibition enforcement officers here on February 15, 1924, according to the majority report of a House investigating committee.

Representative E. W. Gibson of Vermont filed a minority report included by the bullet which hit Senator Greene was fired from the gun of Prohibition Agent Fisher."

The report says in some instances liquor which was being illegally disposed in the District was traced to diplomatic sources.

ERIN ENJOYING PEACE, SAYS U. S. PRELATE

Prospers Under New Regime, Declares the Archbishop of Baltimore

By ARCHBISHOP MICHAEL J. CURLEY,

Of the Baltimore Archdiocese, Who Returned From Europe Tuesday on the S. S. Majestic.

Written for Universal Service.

New York, Sept. 4.—The people of the Irish Free State are enjoying the blessings of peace.

The Irish government under the leadership of President Cosgrave is engaged in constructive work for the development and upbuilding of the country.

In a very short space of time more real work has been done for Ireland's benefit than has been done in a century by other and seemingly more conservative parties.

In fact, the courageous activity of the present Irish government is truly remarkable when one considers that from 1922 to 1923 every member of it was marked for murder, and that the Irish people passed through twelve months of unprecedented savagery, destruction, murder and robbery on the part of the irregulars, many of whom had never been heard of when real men were needed to combat—England's Black and Tans, auxiliaries and regular army.

Fought Against Odds

De Valera's irregulars blew up bridges by the hundreds, robbed banks, wrecked and looted trains, took human life, destroyed and plundered private homes without a shred of noble purpose in their destructive work. Even during that long spell of terror the government went forward in its determination to do their very best for the country.

Today in spite of Jim Lawkin Governor Al Smith's precious gift to Ireland and Eamonn De Valera, order has been brought out of chaos. The country is back once more to the regular law, wherever one goes, one feels a sense of real security. In every county the roads are under repair, the wrecked bridges have been rebuilt.

The civic guards, Ireland's new police force, is second to none, and Ireland's own little army under O'Duffy, McKeon, Hogan, Berman and other Irishmen, all the bravest of the brave, is now disciplined and trained, ready to give an account of itself in Ireland's defence.

Land Law a Winner

The whole judicial system has been reorganized on a new basis, making legal proceedings much less costly than under the old British system, the government having adopted the circuit court plan well known to American readers. The new land law is the finest measure of its kind and satisfies effectively the people's yearning for the soil.

The educational system has already undergone changes that make it more national and much better adapted to intellectual needs than it was in the days gone now forever when England's purpose was to accomplish the impossible—namely, to change Irish children into "happy little English children."

The Gaelic language is now being taught in every school of the Free State, and a returning exile discerns everywhere a new spirit of freedom. Where British officers and Lancashire regiments marched about with a superior air of conquest, and British cavalry rode defiant of a people's rights, Irish soldiers are to be found today, sons of the soil sworn to service in a truly Irish cause.

Taxes Burdensome

When we consider what Ireland has suffered during seven and a half centuries of oppression and during the last eight years, to speak of recent times, I have no hesitation in saying that the Irish government under the brilliant guidance of the cultured Cosgrave (a resident of nine English prisons) has worked wonders and is capable of really regulating the Green Isle from every naturally constructive standpoint if only it is given the opportunity.

The people of Ireland are capable of handling their own affairs, and when the day comes that they, having strengthened their present position, desire to travel further and the distance is short in the road to complete and absolute freedom, we can say without fear of contradiction that the country that produced a Pearse, a Collins and a Sean McKeon, will know when and how to take a decisive step without dictation or pressure from Melbourne, San Francisco or New York.

SENATE CANDIDATE IS HELD ON RUM CHARGE

Political psychologists in Salem are pondering over the case of Frank H. Thegart, candidate for State senator, following his arrest by City Marshal Phelan on a liquor charge.

Thegart, who is thirty years old, was mixing up alcohol and water in the rear of his automobile sales room when the marshal descended upon him, according to the marshal's statement.

The alcohol and the bottles were seized and constitute the principal evidence against the politician.

MEDIUM AIDS HUNT FOR LOST MAINE MAN

Missing Farmer Will Be Found in Bad Condition, She Asserts

Appleton, Me., Sept. 4.—Searching parties have combed the woods here for several days in an attempt to locate Charles Smith, sixty, a well-known farmer, who has been missing from the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. T. McCorrison. Smith has been suffering from the effects of a paralytic shock and is quite feeble.

Parties engaged in the search consulted a medium, who told them that Mr. Smith left home with a bag of food, stopped at the "Four Corners," went to Hills Mills, and finally back to his own home.

The searchers passed within thirty feet of him, while he was lying in the grass, the medium said. Prophecy was made that the missing farmer would be found in a few days, but the searchers were cautioned that he was in bad condition.

Henry Clay's Niece Dies, Aged 102, In Alton, N. H.

Alton, N. H., Sept. 4.—Funeral services for Mrs. Abigail B. Weare, age 102 years and 7 months, this town's oldest resident, will be held this afternoon at her home. Mrs. Weare was born in Gilmanton.

When married she moved to Deerfield and for 73 years lived in the same house. Henry Clay was her great uncle on her mother's side.

EXAMINATIONS SET FOR POLICE PROMOTION

A Civil Service examination for sergeants in the Boston police department for promotion to the grade of lieutenant will be held on Monday, September 29, according to a general order issued by Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson. Three years' service as a sergeant is required.

PLUMBER PAYS $415,000 FOR APARTMENTS

East Boston Man Buys 115 Suite Structure in Allston

Abraham Yorks, forty-five years old, who conducts a small plumbing shop at No. 167 Chelsea street, East Boston, laid aside his tools long enough to go to a real estate dealer's office and pay $415,000 for an apartment house of 115 suites on Commonwealth avenue, Allston.

Yorks, a native of Russia, came to this country fifteen years ago. He had learned the plumbing trade in Russia and after working a few months as a plumber's helper, he established himself in business, opening a small shop at the rear of his home.

Neighbors had no suspicion that the plumber was a man of wealth until his realty deal of almost half a million dollars became known.

Chenille embroidered georgette in slenderizing back and front panel styles, $35.

Services for larger women

Clothing Information Bureau to help you solve your "slenderizing" problem. Advice and assistance, free of charge, of course. We suggest that you 'phone for an appointment.

Special shops for larger women—and an understanding "larger woman" whose sole duty it is to see that these shops are kept up to the minute—and that sizes are kept ample.

Fall fashions "just made" for larger women

The cream of the season's styles favor larger women—for lines were never more slenderizing! Tunics, long, slim and sleek, accentuate height and slenderness—fur facings on coats and shawl collars, panel effect. Simple strap pumps that are cut low on the sides to elongate the ankle-line and modified forms of the square-crowned hat are more becoming.

COATS WITH FUR REVERS and other "fur touches" like long fur edges and buttons to give an "up and down" effect. A particularly smart style is of suedelike cloth with dyed muskrat (Hudson Seal) trimmings, $125. (Fifth floor)

LONG LINED TUNICS of chenille embroidered georgette, combine the newest vogues! Becoming necklines and long sleeves further favor the fuller figures and are fashion-foremost as well, $16.50 to $29.50. (Fifth floor)

TUNIC SKIRTS are especially designed to give the tube-like silhouette. Women find skirts of this type so comfortable. Navy, black or brown crepe sizes 40 to 46, $7.50. (Fifth floor)

SLIM LINE FUR COATS of seal dyed muskrat (Hudson seal) are a wise choice for the larger woman. 48-in. length will become CRUSH collars, made on long straight lines, $395. (Sixth floor)

JACQUARD FAILLE one of the season's leading fabrics in a larger women's dress with the much desired straight-from the shoulder effect. A particularly striking example in coat style, Navy and black, $35.

Five other styles especially becoming to larger women, $35. (Sixth floor)

STRAIGHT SILK SLIPS of soft, clinging crepe de Chine, are made on the very lines larger women should insist upon. In navy, black or white, $7.50. (Third floor)

4 BOYS SEIZED AT GUN POINT IN BURGLARY

Two Are Accused as "Fagins" Who Taught Juniors Robber Tricks

Four boys, two alleged to be junior "Fagins," who trained the other two in the fine art of burglary, were captured at a revolver point in an archway at Dooley square early today.

Patrolman Orville Kennison heard a noise in the Swartz Arcade Building as he was making his rounds. Then he saw shadowy figures dodge into the archway.

Following with drawn revolver, the policeman captured Ralph Gagnon, sixteen years old, of No. 59 Prince street; Carlo Boltassino, sixteen, of No. 37 Sheafe street; Carmen Capelle, twelve, No. 26 Fleet street, and Posilino Rino, fourteen of No. 4 Everett court.

Gagnon and Boltassino are alleged to have taught their younger companions how to be burglars.

King's Engineer Retires

London, Sept. 4.—J. H. Springthorpe, engineer of the royal train, has retired after fifty years' railroad service.

BEFORE TWINS WERE BORN

Was Very Miserable. Felt Lots Better After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyocena, Wis.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my twins were born because my sister used it and recommended it to me. I was so I could scarcely go about my daily work I was in such misery. But after I began taking the second bottle I was feeling lots better. I took three bottles and a half before I was confined and finished the bottle while I was in bed. I got up feeling fine and have taken care of the twins alone ever since. I recommend the Vegetable Compound highly and will sing its praises in the future."—Mrs. Ida Gaumz, Wyocena, Wis.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many mothers are left in a weakened and run-down condition after childbirth, and for such mothers the care of the baby is well-nigh impossible. Not only is it hard for the mother, but the child itself will indirectly suffer.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother both before and after childbirth. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and can be taken in safety by nursing mothers.

A recent canvass reports 98 out of every 100 women are benefited by

BERLIN WRATHY AT FRENCH DELAYS

Troops to Remain in Dortmund 10 Weeks More Through Diplomatic Trick

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND.

Berlin, Sept. 4 (Universal Cable).—France has broken her plighted word. The French militaristic generals in control in the Ruhr are sabotaging the pact of London!

These exclamations dotting the German press are characteristic of the German indignation over France's delay in evacuating the industrial centre around Dortmund as promised by Premier Herriot in London.

The German public was led to believe that Dortmund would be evacuated immediately after the pact was signed, and this was the weightiest argument in persuading enough Nationalists to vote for the pact to assure ratification in the Reichstag. It is now revealed that through one of the characteristic tricks of diplomatic language all that Premier Herriot promised was merely to "order" evacuation at once and not to do the actual evacuating.

The French generals, taking advantage of this ambiguity, announce that they intend to stay in Dortmund for ten weeks longer.

The German government, though disappointed, has issued an official statement to calm popular indignation, promising that the evacuation of Dortmund will be completed by October 19, when the economic evacuation of that zone must be completed.

Belgian Forces Are Getting Out of Ruhr

Brussels, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The Belgian military evacuation of the Ruhr begins tonight with the withdrawal of a battalion of the Sixteenth Artillery, which will relieve the garrison at Tillemont. Other units will be taken out from time to time. Orders for the movement of special branches such as the heavy artillery, tanks and aviation, have been issued.

The retirement of these arms will constitute the first stage of the evacuation. The second stage will be the removal of the infantry, which will be brought back by entire regiments instead of by battalions.

RHINELAND RELIEF MEASURES ADOPTED

Coblenz, Sept. 4.—The Interallied High Commission for the Rhineland adopted today in conformance with the London agreement for a reparation settlement five ordinances. The first measure abolishes the collection of customs on the eastern border after September 9. The second and third, effective immediately, restore freedom of movement between the occupied and unoccupied regions.

The fourth ordinance annuls the regulation of traffic on the Rhine and the fifth abrogates provisions regarding the circulation of the emergency paper money.

COW BARN, BUT NO PLACE FOR THE COWS

Six hundred gallons of bright, sparkling "moonshine" were stewing on the fire early today when prohibition agents and Chief Perley R. Dexter of Bedford raided a cow barn deep in the Bedford woods and seized the plant.

The police also arrested the man who admitted he was in charge of the young distillery.

Six 100-gallon stills in full operation were seized, also 75 gallons of prepared "moonshine," 6,000 gallons of mash, 5,000 pounds of sugar, fifty pounds yeast and many other "moonshine" accessories.

LYNN'S NEW PLANTS TO COST $1,600,000

One of the largest building programs in Lynn since erection of the General Electric plant will begin soon when the Lynn Gas & Electric Company starts the $600,000 remodeling of its gas and coke works and building a new electrical plant at a cost of $1,000,000. The new coke ovens will be erected near the company's Broad street plant. The new electrical plant to be erected by Stone & Webster will be ready for occupancy November 1. It will increase the horsepower from 10,000 to 16,000.

STATE OF SIEGE IN BRAZIL EXTENDED

Buenos Aires, Sept. 4.—President Bornardes of Brazil has signed a decree extending until December 31, the state of siege prevailing in the Federal district, and the States of Rio Janeiro, Sao Paulo, Matto Grosso, Goyaz, Para, Amazonas, and Bahia, says a dispatch from Rio to La Nacion. The extension was made "in view of the necessity of maintaining public order."

BOY HITS ROWBOAT IN DIVE; DIES OF HURTS

Brattleboro, Vt., Sept. 4.—Paul Golden, fourteen years old, of Hinsdale, N. H., died in the Melrose Hospital here as the result of injuries received by striking on a rowboat while diving from culvert into the Connecticut River near Hinsdale Monday afternoon. The boy was in bathing with others and as he made a seven-foot dive Henry Holman of Hinsdale emerged from under the culvert, rowing a boat and the lad struck it on his side, injuring internal organs.

Husband Left $1 by Wife He Deserted After 43 Years

Worcester, Sept. 4.—"And to husband, Eugene M. Clapp, who deserted me after forty-three years of happy married life, I bequeath the sum of $1."

So reads a clause in the will of Ida M. Clapp, filed in Probate Court. The remainder of the estate, the value of which is not indicated, is left to a son, Leon M. Clapp of Westboro.

SOUTH END MAN, LONELY AND ILL, KILLS HIMSELF

Loneliness and the infirmities of age finally broke down the will to live of Alfred E. Hibbs who was sixty-five years old. He called upon the few friends he had in the city, spoke cheerily of old times, and the changes brought by the years, he was found dead in his bed at No. 422 Shawmut avenue today. A gas tube was in his mouth. A matter-of-fact little note explained that he found the game no longer worth the effort.

ATTEMPT IS MADE TO ASSASSINATE MUSSOLINI

London, Sept. 4.—A dispatch to the Daily Express from Rome says an attempt was made Sunday night to assassinate Premier Mussolini while he was traveling in an automobile from Acquapendente to Rome. Shots which were fired at the premier, the correspondent declares, missed him, but an automobile which was following was struck by a number of bullets.

The authors of the outrage were not captured and their identity is unknown.

Open War On "Hip Pocket Bootlegs" at Syracuse Fair

PUGILIST, HURT IN A LIVELY BOUT, IS DEAD

Charley Hulman Was Knocked Through Ropes, His Head Striking the Floor

Baltimore, Sept. 4.—Charles Hulman, Baltimore featherweight boxer, died at a hospital today from injuries suffered in a bout with Lou Mayer, another Baltimore pugilist. Mayer was placed under arrest.

In the tenth round Mayer knocked Hulman through the ropes, his head striking the floor. Hulman remained on the canvas, however, until toward the closing moments of the twelfth and final round, when he sank to the floor under Mayer's blows on the head and body, and was carried to his corner unconscious.

Efforts to revive him were of no avail and he was taken to a hospital, where physicians said he was dying from hemorrhage of the brain.

Hulman was twenty-four years old and married. His wife was at the ringside. When he sank down in the final round she seized a towel and threw it into the ring to save him from further punishment.

FARMER IS KILLED BY OWN HORSES' HOOFS

North Easton, Sept. 4.—Llewellyn McCarthy, a farmer, was killed in an unusual accident. He had loaded his hayeart and climbed on top when the two horses started and the hay began to slip. McCarthy fell under the horses' hoofs. Being trampled to death.

'Folliculitis' Is Hitting Girls With 'Bobs'

By Universal Service

New York, Sept. 3.—Bobbed hair has developed a feminine equivalent of the barber's itch.

"Plopper's rash," or pathologically "folliculitis," is the new ailment. Dr. Charles F. Pabst, medical examiner for the Civil Service Commission, declares scores of bobbed-haired women are coming to him with a neck covered with rash or pimples seeking treatment.

It is due to dull barber's clippers, he says, and reports that blondes suffer from it a great deal more than brunettes.

TRY TO GET THIS NUMBER!

This is a reproduction of part of a page of the Boston Telephone Directory. L. R. McKinly has a phone, of course he has. The arrow points to his name. Nobody can get the number but he pays the price!

Don't Call Dorchester Man Because His Telephone Is Merely an Ornament

Out in Dorchester, on the reading, rocky heights of Meeting House Hill, if you see a wild-eyed man pacing about, pressing his trembling hands to his hot, beating temples and flinging away into the wind the wisps of hair he has plucked from his skull—it's L. R. McKinley. He's been telephoning.

Will those boys from today back into the dark archives that opened by Mr. Bell, who have crowned their brows with wreaths as champion hardluck telephone subscribers kindly step one pace forward and pile all their wreaths on McKinley's aching head?

If there exists such a term as super-champion hard luck subscriber, McKinley is all of them. Read his letter to the Boston American, penned from the sombre silence of his home, No. 31 Highland street, Dorchester, a silence that is never broken by the harsh, compelling summons of a telephone bell:

HE'S GONE THE LIMIT.

"I have reached the limit of my endurance, and appeal to you for assistance. This is not a joking matter, but a very serious thing, and I know I am not alone in this trouble.

"The trouble I speak of is my telephone. I pay out every month a certain amount of hard-earned cash to this company for service rendered.

"About three months ago they installed a dial phone in place of the old style phone in my home and changed my number at the same time. Things went along for about six weeks and my wife and I thought it strange that none of our friends were calling us up as they had in the past.

"When we called one of them, the party told us he had tried several times to get us, but was told there was no such number as the one we had. I might mention right here that my number was printed right in the book.

"After he would inform the operator to that effect, she would tell him he didn't know what he was talking about and to call information and get the right number. Then this party and many others under similar conditions would call information, who would give them my correct number.

TRY, TRY AGAIN.

"They would try again and would be told the same thing once more and finally would give up in disgust. This same thing has happened to at least a dozen or so of my friends and relatives and they are willing to testify to it.

"After we heard from a number of our friends to this effect, I called the operator on my own phone and asked her the reason why I was not getting any calls on the phone when people were calling me.

"She asked me wh my number was and I told her. Then she came back at me and told me I was off my nut, or words to that effect, and declared there was no such number, that she did not have such a number listed.

"NO SATISFACTION."

"I then got in touch with the chief operator and stated the situation to her. She told me the same thing — that there was no such number. I finally managed to beat it into her head that there was and that I happened to be the unfortunate party holding it, also that it was printed in their directory, for which, it seems, the company has the pleasure of sending me a statement every month to cover the cost of maintaining this wonderful service. Why isn't it obtaining money under false pretenses?

"I defy anyone to go down to the telephone offices, enter a complaint and get any satisfaction. They tell you the trouble is with you and if you don't watch out, they will take your phone out or increase the rates.

REPEATED FAILURES.

"In addition to the two months that we received no incoming calls, our phone has been out of order on an average of three to five days every month. On September 1 it went out again in the morning. My wife tried to call a number and could not get the operator but it seems the operator could hear my wife talking.

"My oldest boy heard three years was beside her while she was waiting and he kept saying 'Hello, hello.' The operator hearing this thought the child was playing with the phone and she deliberately put it out of order.

"Along toward noontime, my wife tried the phone again and it worked. The operator immediately started in to bawl my wife out for allowing the children to play wit hthe phone. I afterwards found out that this operator's number was 15. It was given to me by supervisor 85.

I CAN'T GET SERVICE.

"Am I compelled to pay the company for services I don't get? Why should I pay for my phone when it is of no use to me?

"If this interests you, or if you can do anything to help or advise me, just try and get me when you receive this letter—Columbia 0422."

McKinley's suggestion was taken. Last night a reporter tried persistently to get Columbia 0422. The number was deader than Columbia himself. The operator using the telephone company's "Don't answer" aria.

Another reporter thinned himself down attempting to get Columbia 0422 from Mystic. The line was busy, the operator reported once. Again there was no answer—then the line busy.

Columbia, apparently, is the gem of the telephone's vast ocean. If any advice is given to McKinley, it might be to buy a bicycle and try only to get Columbia 0422. The self-service.

Carpentier Gets Fond Farewell From Actress

New York, Sept. 4.—Georges Carpentier, before sailing on the Berengaria, received a lingering, clinging, tearful farewell from Mary Eaton, the actress.

"Good-bye, George," wept Mary, and offered a kiss that lasted so long it worried the ship's officers.

"Au Revoir," returned Georges, also sorrowfully, and gave her another kiss for good measure.

Lest Mme. Carpentier, in Paris, be worried by radioed reports, let it be added that Mary was chaperoned by her mother and two sisters.

FRIENDS RAISE $50,000 BAIL FOR GILPATRIC

Putnam Bank Wrecker Released After Waiving Examination

Putnam, Ct., Sept. 4.—G. Harold Gilpatric, former State treasurer and cashier of the First National Bank, closed after the cashier had attempted suicide August 7, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson of Norwich at the Day-Kimball Hospital, where Gilpatric is a patient, charged with embezzlement of $100,000 from the wrecked bank.

Gilpatric, through his attorney, former Attorney General William A. King of Willimantic, waived examination and his bond was fixed at $50,000.

The bond was furnished by twenty-six Putnam friends of Gilpatric. Walter Gilpatric, a brother of the cashier, offered to furnish all of the $50,000 bond, but as his property is in New York State, he could not be considered. Raymond Gilpatric, another brother, was one of the bondsmen.

How to sleep ...for youth-health-beauty

A secret that has meant wonders to me in better health and looks

I NEVER thought much about sleep. I guess I slept as well as most people. My health has always been normal but I do get awfully tired sometimes. Who doesn't?

My doctor asked me one day, "How do you feel mornings?" "Pretty irritable, sometimes," I said, "Not very eager to start in on the day's work."

"You are not getting the right kind of sleep" he said. Then he told me what to do. Every woman who values her health and good looks will be delighted if she will follow these simple directions.

Take a "neutral bath"

Just before you retire fill the bath tub with lukewarm water—just the heat of your body so that the water feels neither hot nor cold.

Lather your body freely with the wonderfully creamy, soothing, antiseptic lather of Lifebuoy Health Soap. Work this lather deeply into pores. Then relax and remain absolutely still in the water for fifteen minutes. This is a "neutral bath."

Dry your skin by gently patting it with the towel and get directly into bed. You will not only go to sleep at once, but will feel amazingly refreshed and rejuvenated in the morning. A week of such sleep will cause a marvelous improvement in your looks and vitality.

Why Lifebuoy induces sleep

The gentle antiseptic in Lifebuoy possesses a peculiar soothing influence on the millions of tiny nerves just below the skin. In sleep alone the exhausted nervous forces are restored. In sleep alone the mind finds the complete rest in which it clears itself of worries. Get a supply of Lifebuoy and enjoy this wonderful Lifebuoy Sleep tonight.

Lever Bros. Co.
Cambridge, Mass.

Orange-red Lifebuoy is the color of pure palm fruit oil...You will like its clean, quickly vanishing odor because you like cleanness.

Lifebuoy is a Health Soap because its creamy, gentle antiseptic lather removes from hands and face the germs one constantly picks up from things which others touch.

Daily use of Lifebuoy keeps your skin splendidly alive and pores open, enabling the body to get rid of wastes and poisons.

COOK SAYS WALES CAN BE WON BY PIE

Cuisiniers to Queen Victoria Tells Girls Way to His Heart

Here's the way to catch him!

The bevy of demurred debutantes who "crashed the gates" of the Berengaria in order to fox trot on the same floor with His Royal Highness Edward Albert, Prince of Wales and the "most wonderful man in the world," overlooked one of their best bets in winning his royal favor.

"I'll tell you something," confided Mrs. Mary A. W[illegible] a half years [illegible] to Her Majesty Queen [illegible]

"I've known the prince ever since he was a little [illegible] to eat Marlborough pie cherry pound cake better than anything else in the world.

PIE, NOT TANGO.

"I go over every year," she continued, "and occasionally visit the Dowager Queen Alexandra as consulting dietician. That's how I happen to know His Highness' favorite recipe.

"I think a girl could get further with a big juicy Marlborough pie than with the most tempting smile, and I know how well he likes to dance.

"Here's the exclusive recipe for the pie. Get to it, girls!

"Line a large pan with pastry dough," directed Mrs. Wilson. "Then cover the bottom thickly with thinly sliced apples.

"Mix [illegible] cream, [illegible] sugar [illegible] cornstarch [illegible] of milk, and [illegible] over the apples in the pastry.

"Last to the top with strips of raw pastry dough, and bake for thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

"This makes a meringue from the stiffly beaten whites of the two eggs and four tablespoons of powdered sugar with a few drops of nuts added. [illegible] over the top of the pie and brown lightly.

NEXT BEST BAIT

"Now I'll tell you about the cherry cake," she said. "If one doesn't work the other's sure to.

"First you cream one pound of sugar and one pound of butter together. Add ten eggs, one pint and a half of sifted flour, two teaspoons of baking powder and one half cup of juice from canned pineapple.

"Here's where we let all the ambitious aspirants hope that Edward likes Marlborough pie best.)

"Beat the whole for twenty minutes, vigorously. Then add one pound of finely chopped candied cherries, four ounces of candied pineapple and a half pound of flaked walnuts. Bake carefully and [illegible]

Mrs. Wilson, who has her connections with the kitchens of royalty, is an internationally known culinary expert.

She explains how to get a three course breakfast consisting of 4 cents per person and has a recipe for raisin cookies which she claims will make the worst boy in the world turn good.

SCOFFS AT SUNDAES

She also says until that two hours a day in the kitchen is sufficient to prepare all the meals and that any moments over are due to the telephone and the back door bell.

"This statement may be odd but it's true and I quote," says Mrs. Wilson. "Women who spend their days [illegible] and canning [illegible]

"And poor women who make the sundaes and [illegible] to have a husband and a real husband."

"I produced Queen Victoria's eighty-five inches," she continued, "by getting her to eat the proper kind of food. It had to be done with the utmost tact, I can tell you.

"In return, she taught me, personally, to make the best sponge cake I ever put in my mouth. I'll give you the recipe."

CAVANAUGH HAS HIGH HOPES OF PUTTING B. C. OVER THE TOP

ONLY TWO VETS OUT OF GAME

Coach Frank Cavanaugh of Boston College football squad is holding high hopes for a championship grid team this season. Only two regulars have graduated from last year's eleven.

Veterans will be on hand at the other nine positions, all three of the backfield men and six of the line men being back.

Maj. Cavanaugh

Maj. Cavanaugh has a wonderful very good reserve material. Captain McKenney will come through fine and ought to be all right for the opening game with Providence on Sept. 27.

MANY REGULARS BACK ON JOB

A strong line is expected at the Heights, with several regulars to depend upon.

Mike Dugan, the all Boston tackle and Bob Connors of the Pere Marquette are two of the men at the Heights who are candidates for tackle positions.

The two veterans will be on hand for the guard positions in Reap Kenny, Jack Kealane and Red Manus.

B. J. Doyle and Pl. Larkin seem to have the lead in the battle for the right for the pivot position. Doyle and Larkin appeared at the position last fall, Grattan Quinn all of Bristol, Conn., will be on hand for the other pivot position.

Frank Sullivan, another Holman, is also sure to report for work at the Heights. Backing Dugan will be Bill Cronin and Joe McKeever, both of the backs with the exception of Quinn, Mahoney, Doyle and Hayes, are also letter men from last year's team.

PLENTY OF NEW MATERIAL

A host of new backs from the high school prep schools will be on hand for the opening game with Dartmouth. Other games to follow are the Maryland game and the Fall.

Three of the Medford High championship eleven, Bud Dower of Norwood, Murphy and Dumas of Natick, Quintero of St. John's prep, Joe Conlon of St. Anselm's prep and McMenimen and Powers from Jack Hopkins, all high school men are also a few of the backs due for a tryout by Major Cavanaugh this Fall.

A freshman eleven will be maintained at the Heights again this year, although there is no freshman rule as yet.

Macdonald Smith, American golf professional, defeated George Duncan, the British veteran, by 4 up and 3 to play, in their 72 hole match considered at Gleneagles Scotland.

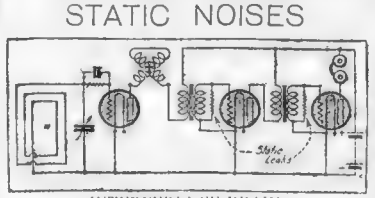
A TIP FOR REDUCING STATIC NOISES



INTERFERENCE DRAIN

Static is like bootlegging. Without it, the radio humorists would have to go back to second story work. That's why the wrinkle shown above doesn't eliminate static altogether. It will take the edge off a good deal of noisy atmospherics, however. Two one-half megohm resistances, such as are used for grid leaks, connected across the secondaries of the audio transformers, are all the gadgets needed. They cut down the volume somewhat, but on a bad night they make signals clearer. A switch for cutting them in and out as desired is a handy addition.

BOBBIE AND HIS PA

By W. F. Kirk

Pa was setting in the swing on our porch last nite & he was looking at som kids playing down the street.

Why are you so Moody this eve, ast Ma to Pa.

I am not Moody, sed Pa. If I talk I am gabby & if I am still I am moody. You are much harder to please the older you grow, sed Pa.

Well, I take it as a compliment, the older I grow. One wud think I was a very assishunt dame to her you talk sed Ma.

We are not so spring chickens, either of us, sed Pa. Let us face the trewth, sed Pa. The silent years is slipping away, Pa sed & in a few more years we shall be old & gray.

Let that stum in his time, sed Ma. I do not relish them of beeing old & gray.

Wimmen never does, sed Pa. That think they will always be young & spritely.

No, sed Ma, but there is no sense in losing grandmothers wile we are still middle aged matrons, sed Ma. I do not feel no older than I did ten years ago, sed Ma.

Why cant we be all the time young and happy, sed Pa.

Because it isnt. Natur, Bobbie, sed Pa. Everything comes & goes in this world, sed Pa. Bobbie, sed Pa. Today we are here & tomorrow we are no more. Them little boys that is going down the street, sed Pa, will be gray men som day, sed Pa. To day they are laffing. Tomorrow they may be in Congriss. The next day they may be in jail or ded, sed Pa.

My goodness, sed Ma, let us change the subjeck.

That is just like wimmen, sed Pa. They fuse to face the grate trewth that all nurtrix must grow old & turn grissly, Pa sed.

There are many nicer things about wich to think about, sed Ma.

Maybe so, sed Pa, but it doesnt hurt us nurtrix to think about the grate trewths of life once in a while, sed Pa. Life aint no think tea, sed Pa. Life is a terrible hard nut.

I dont see many scars on you, sed Pa. Ma was laffing.

When I begin to laff too, I guess it aint no use for me to be useful around here, sed Pa.

All Need Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

Will some kind reader send me some things for boys 12, 8 and 4, girl 11. It is very hard on me with five children and I ran only go out for a few hours for my baby is only 6 months old. The children with the exception of the baby all need Winter clothes and coal is almost here and they haven't anything to speak of to wear. If any kind reader has an old stroller I would be very glad as my 4-year-old boy is not very strong. I hope someone will hear my plea.

MRS. MYRA B.

Thanks From Mrs. L. B.

Helping Hand Editor:

I received a bundle of ladies clothes from some kind reader in Cambridge and as she didn't give her address I am asking you to thank her through your column.

MRS. L. B.

Would Help Mother

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a girl of fifteen and would like to get work. I am fond of books and would take a great interest in a book store, but any kind of work will do. Prefer it in Cambridge or Boston. I am the second oldest of six children. My brother, seventeen, finds it hard to get work and my father only worked three days last Winter, so my poor mother finds it very difficult to make ends meet.

$5 for M. E. B.

Helping Hand Editor:

Enclosed you will find $5.00 which please forward to M. E. B. As I am scheduled to work next Sunday and the holiday, somebody might as well get the use of the money I would probably spend. As I sometimes hear of vacancies in various positions, if I knew what M. E. B. was capable of handling, I might be able to help her get work if she cares for it.

C. B. L.

Thank you so much for your interest in M. E. B. We are sending you her address that you may write her regarding employment.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney, Boston Health Commissioner.

Dr. Mahoney

Even if you are not a fat person, you have a certain amount of fat either concealed or revealed about your person.

It is an important part of your anatomy and you ought to understand just what it specifically means in its relation not only to your figure, but to your physical well-being.

Fat comprises your chief reserve of fuel—the coal in your bin. This is not a mere figure of speech, but a physically demonstrable fact.

If you do not maintain the normal amount of your body your energy will be rapidly lessened. If the process goes on very far—say a little lower than 50 degrees Fahrenheit for a considerable length of time—you would die.

You maintain the normal heat of the body, which is 98.4 Fahrenheit, by taking in fuel in the form of food.

The fat accumulated remains in the body until there is a shortage of food-supply to an excess demand for the fuel, as in some diseases, when it comes to the front, goes to the fuel-burning zones and is burned up.

Fat is a non-conductor of heat and tends to prevent escape of heat from the body by direct radiation, thus protecting the influence of external cold.

It also serves as a cushion that protects delicate nerve trunks from external injury. In this sort the fat pads and is therefore an important element in what has come to be accepted as our standard of beauty.

So, you see, fat really has a very important relation to your well-being and is not something to be gotten rid of by diet or exercise or by any other means every time it becomes stylish to be skinny.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

My child has a cleft palate. It is two years old. Is it too young for an operation?

Probably not, but I would recommend that you take your child to the Children's Hospital, Va. Ian Longwell, M. D., Boston, could have it looked after if you have no family physician.

Am 16 years of age and have varicose veins in my right arm and under the armpit. Can I be benefited by a very simple and not a serious surgical operation?

What is the cause of a palpitating heart? MRS. E. A. J.

It would be difficult for me to tell the cause of your heart condition. I would suggest that you place yourself under the supervision of your family physician. He will be able to tell you your condition after a few consultations.

Please tell me the name of a good specialist in women's diseases.

MISS W. N.

We do not give the names of physicians, but if you consult a physician you have our directory, physicians would advise you to go to the gynecological department of the City Hospital or the Massachusetts General Hospital.

SUMMER SPORTS

Taking chances on long shots at the race track in order to get enough money to take the automobile out of storage.

Trying to convince the wife that fifteen is not enough to have his suits cut off.

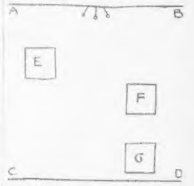
Pushing your golf bag out of the closet and finding it full of mice.

Giving up cigars for a week in order to be able to afford the extravagance of treating the family to a few quarts of early strawberries.

Pushing the lawnmower for two hours after your small son sneaks off in a ball game.

Resisting the temptation to flirt with the flinger flapper, while your wife is away.

Brain Teasers



A, B, C, D represent a walled estate, E, F and G, three houses, and H, I, K, three fountains. It is required to lay the pipes so as to bring water from I to G, from H to F and from E to K, but the pipes must not cross each other, nor must they go outside the enclosure.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

The leading European nations are at last in earnest about ending the six years of disorganization which have followed the war.

* * *

I had talks in Europe with such well-known men as Owen D. Young, now often referred to as "the boss of Europe," Secretary Mellon, who in his own quiet way learned all that was going on below the surface; Thomas W. Lamont, who has become the foremost international bankers and business man.

Every American leader emphasized the changed attitude of the European governments as contrasted with last year and previous years. The unanimous verdict was: "Germany, France, Britain, Italy and Belgium are all now anxious and willing down to brass tacks and get things going."

That every precaution will be taken to insure the success of the Dawes-German loan both here and abroad can be taken for granted. In fact, complaint was voiced that American bankers were insisting upon terms regarded by Europe as unreasonably favorable to lenders. I was told that America's banking representatives started out by demanding that Britain guarantee the American share of the German loan, but that this demand was received with astonishment and could not entertained. Privately some very harsh things were said by Europeans about our financiers.

The $100,000,000 German loan scheduled to be floated here is likely to prove the forerunner of many loans, governmental, municipal and corporate, to be offered American investors. I gathered that the outlook is extremely good for placing immediately and that next year will see a very broad movement of American capital across the Atlantic.

* * *

There was, one finds, much opposition, particularly political opposition, to the Dawes plan, but no nation rebelled facing conditions which rejection of the plan would have meant. Even so, the Dawes plan is not regarded as the greatest contribution America has made to European rehabilitation since the war ended.

Those responsible for the Dawes plan and for its acceptance early concluded that the best way for them to "sell" it to the most responsible financial and business interests in each country and then have these interests bring their influence to bear upon their political leaders.

It may interest Americans to know that this is not the only country where the charge is often made that the politicians in power are largely under the domination of high finance and big business. For instance, many British business man went so far as to say to me, "There is one financier in London who could turn out the Labor government at once if he decided this would be for the best interests of the empire. He is the power behind the scenes. Yet very few of little known in your country, but comparatively unknown here, so quietly does he function."

Owen D. Young, the American born boy who first became a Boston lawyer and later the chief executive of the famous General Electric Company, has made a unique hit in Europe by his quiet, agressive personality, his smooth but effective diplomacy, and his transcendent acumen and business ability. One is told on all sides that Young was the principal author of the Dawes plan. Not only so, but he is credited with having done more than any other person to remove obstructions to its adoption.

Before the news of his appointment came I asked Young if he cared to tell me frankly what he proposed to do. He replied, in effect:

"I am prepared to undertake any office offered me by those interested in putting the Dawes plan into operation, whether that office be agent general or manager bank. So much does at stake are so tremendous, so important to Europe and to the world at large, that I am willing to stay here for several months, if necessary, in order to assist setting up the necessary machinery. That done, I must return and attend to my own business."

8 PER CENT. ON GERMAN LOAN IS LOOKED FOR

Boston News Bureau's London bankers, though disliking Germany, think highly of security behind the erman loan, and say probable rate of interest will be 7 or 8 per cent.

"There is considerable feeling against Germans among business men who fear competition in trade," it was stated. "Nevertheless, Germans have been placing funds outside of their country. One banker suggests that Germany imposes taxes payable in foreign exchange as means of making external payments under Dawes plan. Gold lon of 40,000,000 pounds will furnish basis for credits three to four four times that amount."

STRAUS GIVES TALK ABOUT THRIFT

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor

I have just received "A Little Talk on Thrift," by S. W. Straus, president American Society for Thrift, who says:

"Saving money, for the young unmarried man, in many cases molds his character by self-denial of things he does not need, improves his health by eliminating dissipation and encouraging regular hours of sleep, fosters the spirit of good work by putting him in a better physical position and lessening the number of distracting outside interests and influences.

"The above is a portion of a letter recently written by a young man in explanation of his reasons for practicing thrift. Until quite recently his salary had been $2,200 a year and his savings have amounted to $100 a month. At the end of this year he was asked for a statement regarding why he was willing to submit to such rigid self-discipline. His letter comprised a sermon on the value of prudent habits.

"He stated that he was able to make such a large saving by adhering to a budget. He did not feel that his habits implied stinginess or tightfistedness, but he realized that his surroundings gave him the ability to save money now. He said he had observed that few successes in the business world are paramount unless the man had learned to save money, and that he did not believe he ever would amount to much if he did not practice thrift and economy in the matter of personal expenditures.

"He displayed a deep appreciation of thrift when he called attention to the fact that it was not alone the money he was saving that would result in father years, but that to a still greater degree habits of thrift would ensue from the strength of character which was attaining. By practicing thrift and by eliminating dissipation he was able to turn his spare time to good advantage by reading the best books and otherwise fitting himself for the great work which it is his ambition to accomplish.

"These are truths that should be kept in mind by all young men today who are willing to deny themselves certain passing pleasures in order to improve their morals and their health and economy. Those who adhere to these practices will tomorrow rule the destines of the business world and the nation."

Has the country an economical President? Let W. E. Hurley's wife tell it. Here is what their morning market letter contained: "At a recent visit to the Coolidge farm at Plymouth Notch—the summer home which the President conducted the affairs of the nation with its furnishings and all—the Coolidges purchased in money value would amount to as much as $12.60.

I notice the Rivadavia, which is to be overhauled at Fore River shipyard, where she was built, is due to arrive in Boston next week. It should be good news as this vessel and her sister craft will furnish work for upwards of 3,000 workmen for at least a couple of years.

It is interesting to know that the gross profits of the Ford Motor Co. stood at $21,245,000,000 as compared with $21,224,000,000 on July 31. Thus far in current fiscal year only $8,200,000 has been used in purchase of Liberty bonds for account of sinking fund, due to higher market prices.

STORES DOING BIT TO AID N. E. WEEK

The stores throughout New England, big and little, are co-operating to the limit in making New England Week, from September 15 to 20, a success.

A proof sheet of sample window cards is now being prepared showing just how stores can help in displaying New England made goods.

These cards also will be furnished with specimens of editorials that can be used effectively in informing their customers of the general plans, purposes, and benefits of New England Week. Scores of editorials already have been printed in newspapers all over New England, and many more will follow before September 15.

It is the purpose of the All New England Week committee to make window cards and all other forms of publicity used in connection with New England Week as uniform as possible.

Samples are, therefore, being prepared as a guide and will soon reach their appearance by various methods of distribution, probably very largely or perhaps through printers in all parts of New England.

During New England Week there will be many elaborate window displays of New England made goods, some of the stores already having worked out plans on a large scale. Co-operation has been spontaneous and unanimous.

An attractive page in several sizes, to consist of an outline map of New England with "Observe New England Week" at the top and "Know New England Quality" at the bottom also will be made available to stores and newspapers.

N. E. Week Objects Told To Milliners at Show

The meaning of the New England Week movement was expounded and its special significance for the millinery industry emphasized by Charles H. Whittier, president of the New England Jobbers & Manufacturers' Millinery Association, at the 19th semi-annual fashion show and dinner of the association at the Copley-Plaza.

After welcoming the milliners and buyers, who came from all parts of New England, Mr. Whittier called attention to the fact that the fashion shows had a special significance in view of the proclamation of New England week, September 15 to 20.

"New England week is a movement affecting all New England," he said, "We have the man power, the money power and the brain power right here. But we don't want to give the impression that the movement is to be undertaken at the expense of the other parts of the country. We feel that all other things being equal we should give preference to New England goods.

"Our slogan here in New England should be 'Enlighten the corner where you are.' Let everybody know where you are, what you are producing and how you produce it."

Bonus Questions Answered

Questions concerning the world war bonus are answered daily in this column. If you are unable to call personally at the bonus information bureau at No. 92 Summer street, mail your inquiry.

Answers are based on the most authoritative information available. However, no full legal interpretation of the bonus act has been issued.

V. C., SPRINGFIELD

Q.—I served from July 23, 1918, to January 19, 1919. Am I entitled to a cash bonus or an insurance policy?

A.—If you were discharged under honorable conditions, you are entitled to a bonus of about $150, which will be paid to you in the form of a twenty-year paid-up insurance certificate of the face value of $360.

S. D. R., RUTLAND, VT.

Q.—I enlisted in the National Guard June 21, 1916, and was drafted into the regular army June 15, 1917, and discharged May 15, 1917. How much bonus, if any, am I entitled to?

A.—If you were discharged under honorable conditions, you are entitled to $1.00 a day less the first 60 days, for your home service, which will aggregate about $15.00. This will be paid to you in cash after next January, if you file an application promptly.

J. G. W., BUZZARDS BAY.

Q.—If your son was 20 years old on Sept. 28, 1917, until Oct. 2, 1918, when he died while at Hoboken, is he the mother and myself entitled to the bonus?

A.—If your son was not married, and his mother was dependent upon him for support at the time of his death, she is eligible to make application for the bonus. A blank has been sent to you with instructions for filling it out.

"TRISCO," WORCESTER.

Q.—I served in the army from August 1, 1917, to December 12, 1918, with the A. E. F. from July 25, 1918, to December 12, 1918. What am I entitled to?

A.—From your service record you will probably be entitled to the maximum bonus of $625 for actual overseas service, and your insurance certificate will have a face value of about $1,800.

J. J. H., MT. HOPE.

Q.—I enlisted February 26, 1918, served overseas 1 year and 5 months, and was discharged May 18, 1919. How much compensation am I entitled to?

A.—Your service credit will amount to approximately $480, and the paid-up insurance certificate which you will receive as you will have a face value of about $1,180.

M. D., NORTH READING.

Q.—I served six months with the N. Y. State Guard, and went to camp for two and a half months with the draft army. How much bonus will I receive?

A.—You are entitled to $1 a day (less the first 60 days), for home service while in active service, which, as near as I can figure out, will be about $15 in cash the first part of next month.

J. C. H., GREENSBORO BEND, VT.

Q.—Will you tell me when the first cash payment to the veterans of the world war is to be made?

A.—It is expected that the payments of cash to the veterans or their dependents entitled to $20 or less, will begin on the first of next March, if contested applications have been cleared before that date.

C. E. H., NEW LONDON, CONN.

Q.—I was in the navy when war was declared, and served the entire period of the war. How much am I entitled to?

A.—You are entitled to the maximum "service credit" of $625 for overseas service, and a paid-up insurance certificate which will be issued to you will have a face value of about $1,600.

STATE SENATOR CARRICK DIES SUDDENLY

George H. Carrick, State senator from the second Middlesex district and candidate for renomination, died suddenly at his home, No. 47 Sparks street, Cambridge. He was taken ill at his office during the afternoon and was seized with acute indigestion on his return to his home.

BUILDING WORKER KILLED IN FALL

Gerald Barry, nineteen years old, of No. 209 Saratoga street, East Boston, was killed in a thirty-foot fall from a girder on a building under construction at Hollis and Tremont streets. The youth was one of the workers on the structure.

TICKET SPECULATORS MUST BE LICENSED

Passed by the State Legislature on June 3 last, an act is effective today which regulates the sale and resale of tickets to theatres and other places of public amusement, the legal axe falls on the necks of flagitive ticket speculators and all ticket selling agencies are forbidden to carry on business unless licensed.

$25,000 Alienation Suit

Silas Schiller, of Lawrence, has filed suit in the Essex county Superior Court at Salem for $25,000 against Michael Ostrolis, also of Lawrence, for alleged alienation of the affections of his wife, Angelo Schiller.

Human Beings to Be Made Into Fertilizer

The suggestion of a reader that the bodies of all men and of all animals be converted into fertilizer, in order to furnish food for the poor, was adopted by Nature about four millions B. C. Man and all the animals go back into the earth, out of which their bodies came, and they all become fertilizer sooner or later.

Kings and rich men have themselves buried in coffins of metal, set in solid blocks of concrete.

But Nature is not in a hurry, she gets her fertilizer in time. The metal disappears and the concrete crumbles, and Nature waits patiently.

And the phosphates and the nitrogen, the lime and the other fertilizing qualities that make up a man go back to the earth and the plants get them.

The only way to avoid Nature's fertilizing plans is through cremation. Many nations in the past, and many individuals now, believe that cremation is the cleanest, most pleasant and desirable method of reducing the body to the elements of which it is composed.

But even by causing the burning of the body you cannot cheat Nature or old earth of the fertilizing power that your body represents.

The nitrogen goes up into the air. But the clover and the alfalfa have the power to take nitrogen out of the air and bring it back to earth.

You may leave instructions to burn your body. There is smoke and flame and a handful of ashes.

But what went off into the air the plants bring back.

Those whose comfort is their belief in resurrection of the individual body oppose cremation, because it might make resurrection impossible. But nothing is impossible to Omnipotence. And it would be no more difficult to collect Mr. John Smith and his various atoms from the atmosphere to which fire has sent him, than to collect the same Mr. John Smith from the area of soil throughout which the worms and the plants have scattered him.

Nothing is lost in Nature. Matter and force are indestructible. Science proves that.

And the spirit of man which controls force and acts upon matter is also indestructible.

Common sense proves that.

The main thing is not to hurt anybody's feelings.

Let him who wishes it be burned and avoid the unpleasant thought of slow crumbling.

And let him who likes to think that daisies will grow out of his grave, and little birds twitter where he lies sleeping, also have his way.

It is a big world with plenty of plans, a chance for everybody to believe what he likes, think what he likes and do pretty nearly what he likes—as he allows others to believe, think and do.

Illness in the Country

It Usually Needs Better Doctoring and Nursing Than It Can Afford

The young man who enters the medical profession with less than the zeal of a missionary finds little incentive to locate in a small community. The rewards of reputation and of success as measured by fees are in the cities.

If, however, his motive is service, the country offers exceptional opportunities, including the chance to do an all-round practice, which broadens the sympathies and the skill.

So, also, with the nurse. Few residents of sparsely settled areas can pay the professional fees of the skilled physician and also employ relays of professional nurses at the pay they command.

Rural illness is thus handicapped at its start. What can be done about it?

Eventually, perhaps, there will need to be a public organization of health facilities and service for these areas, to include both physicians and nurses.

Meanwhile, an abridged training in the essentials of nursing, particularly for young women in small villages, and a tradition among physicians that general practice should precede specialization, might help.

Elections and Business

A very sensible statement regarding the influence of elections upon business has been set forth by the National City Bank of New York.

"While it would be too much to say that there is nothing that the government can do to promote the prosperity and welfare of the country, two general propositions may be safely stated:

"First, that the government has much greater power to injure the country through bad legislation affecting industry and business than to benefit it through legislation touching those subjects, and,

"Second, that there are greater opportunities to benefit the country by repealing laws now on the statute books, thus correcting past mistakes, than by passing new laws."

The report continues to say that prosperity comes by the free and voluntary activities of individuals in industry and in the exchange of services, and the government can do little beyond facilitating these activities.

The Aviation Age

"America has entered the age of aviation at last," it is declared.

It is also stated that "America realizes that the day has arrived for aviation on a successful commercial basis."

There is more mail than the postoffice airships can carry. All over the United States today one can post letters for air mail in neat red boxes, circled with broad red, white and blue bands, and there is no doubt that this most important service has come to stay.

When Henry Ford, or somebody else, shall manufacture and distribute a cheap motorplane, as cheap automobiles have been manufactured, the air will be thick with fliers.

It has been demonstrated that an engine can run as well in the air as on the earth, and it will not be long before there are as many of them.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

By HELEN ROWLAND

MY DAUGHTER, I charge thee, beware! For this is the season of "Apple Sauce"—and there be 57 varieties thereof wherewith men shall seek to regale thee.

For lo, in flattery, as in cigarettes, every man hath his favorite brand and stick-eth to his own "line."

Helen Rowland

Behold, there is the Sheik that flattereth boldly with his eyes and brazenly with his tongue, and spreadeth the Apple Sauce thick. For though much be set, he hopeth that SOME will go down. And he is right.

And there is the Free Lance that presenteth his compliment around to ALL women impartially, even as chocolate fudge or caviar sandwiches. For his motto is "Safety in numbers!"

And there is the Dissembler that thinneth the Apple Sauce with caution and speaketh only in hints and innuendoes and subtle whispers.

Prudence is his middle name and self-preservation his ruling passion. And his slogan is "Watch thy step!"

And there is the Violent that serveth it richly spiced with imitation hot and neat proposals and ALL-OUT declarations. Take heed how thou harkenest—for whatsoever he may offer thee, it hath a STRING attached!

And there is the Platonic Friend that serveth the Apple Sauce plain and praiseth the joys of "mental companionship" and the beauties of thy MIND.

Beware of him, for the sauce is heady with wine and he seeth no "mental-charms" in a woman who is plain of face.

And there is the "Caveman" who protesteth eternal devotion at first sight and filleth a damsel with Grade A flattery 99 per cent pure BUNK.

But the Master Artist is he that dealeth the Apple Sauce out discreetly and offereth unto EACH damsel her own favorite brand.

Lo, he praiseth the Simple Soul for her wit and the Highbrow for the dimple in her elbow; the Fat Woman for her dancing and the Flatiron for her ankles. And upon every woman he bestoweth a different "pet name."

For he knoweth in her heart every woman coveteth that which Nature hath denied her. And, behold, he always winneth!

Verily, verily, my Daughter, of Apple Sauce and the varieties of Apple Sauce there is no end.

But ALL of it is sweet to the palate and easy to swallow!

And no woman ever getteth ENOUGH!

SELAH.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

IF all day long gay bits of song
keep welling to your lips, if you can tell that all is well with dreamland's home-bound ships; if, as you go, you never know a pang of doubt or fear, but aways find this old world kind and full of hope and cheer, why, Friend, it's plain you can't refrain from taking duty's way; make others' miles brimful of smiles, make others journeys gay! If all day long things will go wrong and cares come thick and fast; if bright hopes die and joys pass by till naught is left at last; then, Friend, be sure that you endure with stalwart heart and brave the countless blows, the ceaseless woes, the troubles deep and grave. In grief and fret do not forget you have a part to play; share joy, not care, and what you bear of grief, hide far away. For all men know some weal, some woe; and wise indeed are they who through the years say naught of tears, but broadcast all things gay. If you would cling to thoughts of Spring, forgetting storms and snow; if you would mark bright hours, not dark, and hoard the sunlight's glow; if far and near, glad hearts spread cheer, if all sad hearts were strong, soon, Friend, you'd find that earth is kind and life is sweet with song.

War Veteran in Need

Helping Hand Editor:

My husband is a World War Veteran of the Canadian Army and the American Legion, has tried in vain to obtain a pension for him as he is suffering from tuberculosis. Friends have over-supplied us with clothes, forgetting that we have to eat, also. If anyone knew of work he could do to support us that wouldn't be beyond his strength, it would be gratefully appreciated. He is best as a truck gardener or with small fruits. We have three girls in the family. I make and sell children's fancy aprons, rompers and dresses and would be glad to receive orders.

MRS. R. F. P.

Sweater Outfit

Helping Hand Editor:

I have a sweater outfit, and other things which will fit a child from 1 to 3 years and a coat for a child 2. If you will give me the address of someone not too far away, would be glad to go with them. MRS. A. H.

Thank you. Mrs. D., mother of nine, can make good use of these articles.

Needs Kitchen Range

Helping Hand Editor:

My husband is sick with rheumatism and losing a lot of work. We are very poor and I do not see any way of buying a kitchen range for the Winter. The old furnace I have is practically all gone and also my gas stove. I cannot bake in it at all, just the top of it is left. If some of your generous readers could supply me with an old stove that I could bake my bread in, it would help me immensely. I will gladly pay transportation on the stove. MRS. J. A. M., Fitchburg.

Thanks for Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

I received a bundle of clothes from Charlestown last week, but there was no name on same, so I would like to thank the sender for their generosity, through your column. C. E. B.

Wants to Board Boy

Helping Hand Editor:

Do you know of any good family that would board a boy 14 years old, some place where a man would take an interest in him, will pay six dollars a week and will you please find homes for some nice clean cats, some place where they will be treated good. MRS. M.

Wants Girl to Board

Helping Hand Editor:

I would like to get a little girl over 3 years old to board for a reasonable price. I can furnish good references. Would treat the child as my own. We are Amer can people. B. B.

Having Hard Time

Helping Hand Editor:

Could you kindly send me some clothes for my children, as there are four of them able to go to school. I can make over anything. I was deserted four years ago and am having a very hard time but I don't think about that as long as I can keep my little family together. There are five girls ages 12, 9, 7, 5, 3, and I take size 38. MRS. R. R.

EVERY CRIMINAL IS PARTLY INSANE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

FEW crimes have been recorded in recent times equal to those of a German, Frederick Haarmann, local butcher and police stool pigeon of Hanover. He broke down finally, after a third degree of the local police, and confessed.

He confessed, however, to murdering "only fourteen" victims, whereas he is suspected of killing twenty-two persons.

He is a gorilla-like figure and refuses to confess the motive which led him to the crimes. It seems that he lured his victims to his den, homeless looking young boys, offering them a meal free at his house where they were slaughtered by cutting their jugular vein, whereupon the vampire fastened his teeth into them and sucked their blood.

Haarmann and his confederates lured these boys into his house under the promise of food and lodging and, while they were asleep, they were murdered and their bodies were either buried in the cellar or thrown into the river.

He raved wildly after making his confession, crying: "Behead me if you will, but for God's sake don't take me out into the street. I cannot stand their glances and the way the people glare."

The Hanover police received hundreds of pitiful letters from heart-broken mothers begging more detailed descriptions of the gruesome skulls and bones found in Haarmann's meat shop and river and thrown up by the river, hoping that these would reveal whether their missing sons were among Haarmann's victims. Scores of mothers arrived from all points of the country to view the clothes found in the vampire's dwelling, in the hope of identifying those as the garments their sons wore when they were last seen. Some of these women have already identified some of the clothes as belonging to their missing sons. Sobbing and fainting, they have confronted Haarmann in his cell, who, however, without being definite, mumbles wildly: "Yes, yes, I suppose I killed him," or "Yes, I knew this boy, but I was sorry for him, so I did not kill him."

It is difficult to see how a man could be guilty of such unnatural and cruel a crime. The only explanation was that he was insane. For it is difficult to imagine how a man in his right mind would do such things.

As far as that is concerned, however, it is a question whether every criminal is not insane, to a degree. Sanity implies conformity to an established order and those who give themselves up to unnatural appetites are in a fair way toward insanity.

If, however, this case is a form of insanity it should be looked into and society should suppress the victim for its own sake.

Just what is the cause of such unnaturalness it is difficult to say. It is doubtless a lack of imagination; the insane person cannot picture to himself the suffering of his victims and, having adopted an insane idea, all his energies are bent upon the gratification of his unnatural lust. Society exists and continues only because of the certainty with which human nature reacts to given conditions. It is but right and proper that those who do not so react should first be cured and secondly isolated.

That human beings should indulge in such unnatural crimes is unbelievable were it not that the facts brought out in investigation furnish proof more invincible than could the imagination.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON MYSTERY OF GRAVITY

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Famous Astronomer and Writer on Subjects of Popular Interest in Various Fields of Science.

Will you please explain to your readers the so-called "law of gravity"—that invisible force which tends to draw all bodies toward the centre of the earth? Is it due to the fact that old mother earth is whirling around at a rate of about 900 miles an hour? Suppose the earth ceased to revolve, would attraction be the same? Again, what causes the earth to keep revolving, and do all the planets and heavenly bodies also revolve on their axis?—READER.

THE "law" by which gravity acts, or operates, is easily explained, being a matter of observation; but the nature of gravity is another thing. That has never been accounted for to everybody's satisfaction. The theory of "attraction" covers it very nicely, until we inquire how it is possible that any attraction or drawing force can be exercised between bodies at a distance from one another and not connected by any physical, or material bands.

Some assume that the link consists of the so-called "ether" supposed to fill all space, so that everything is immersed in it and thus connected by it. Then gravity—or in a broader sense, gravitation—is assumed to be the result of strains in the ether, tending to draw bodies together.

India Rubber Idea

What is meant by this may be suggested by a string of India rubber. Stretch it and its ends tend to draw together and the string shortens. So a chunk of India rubber, if stretched, or deformed in any way, tends to draw back again into its original shape.

If this does not seem to illustrate very clearly the case of a lifted stone tending to fall toward the earth, at least it starts the imagination toward an explanation by showing how the ether, by being very elastic, might produce similar effects upon bodies immersed in it.

But then comes Einstein, and by means of transcendental mathematics demonstrates (transcendentally) that there is no ether, and that gravitation is not a force but an effect arising from an inherent "curvature" of space. But we are here in the dark, among the barbed wires, in the no-man's land, between the trenches of the battlefield of scientific theories, and the wisest course for us, with our unhelmeted heads in danger, is to get out of the tangle and the gloom.

Let us give a few moments to the only "law" that Newton was able to find governing gravitation. He demonstrated, by the aid of the kind of mathematics that is based on common sense and common experience, that something causes all physical things and all particles of matter to draw together.

He proved that the heavier a body is the greater is its "attractive force" on gravitation. A body of a hundred pounds weight has a hundred times as much attractive force as has a one-pound body. The earth has about twelve septillion times as much attraction as a one-pound body. It has about 1-330,000 as much as has the sun.

But, and this is an infinitely important "but," the gravitational attraction of any body falls off very rapidly with increase of distance from the body and from the centre of the body exercising the attraction. In fact it falls off in proportion to the square of the increase of distance. If the distance is doubled the force falls to one-quarter of what it was before; if the distance is tripled, the force diminishes to one-ninth, and so on. If this were not so the universe would all fall together and end in a common smash.

Two Branches

When we put the two branches of Newton's law of gravitation together—one prescribing that the attraction must vary directly as the weight (mass) of the bodies concerned; the other that it must vary inversely as the square of the distance between them—we get a foundation on which has been again built the original and marvellous structure of gravitational astronomy, the chief d'oeuvre of the human mind.

Your idea that the rotation of the earth on its axis produces its gravity is without foundation. The centrifugal force resulting from the rotation decreases, to a small extent, the effect of the gravitative attraction upon bodies on the earth's surface. But this does not affect its attraction upon bodies not sharing its rotation or constituting a part of it, such for instance, as the moon.

As far as we know axial rotation is a common phenomenon among all heavenly bodies.
